KOELN NOT READY TO PICK MAN FOR CIRCUIT ATTORNEY

Republican Leader Denies Foristel in Favoring Sidener's Re-Election Speaks for Him.

"I have not decided whom I shall support for Circuit Attorney," Edmund Koeln, City Collector and Republican party dictator, told the Post-Dispatch today over telephone from Hollister, Mo., where he is on a short vacation.

Koeln's political lieutenant, Edward W. Foristel, had declared earlier in the week that he favored the re-election of Howard Sidener, and it was assumed by many political observers that he was speaking for the Koeln machine. This Koeln denied.

"Foristel's actions don't control mine," he said. "I don't even know who is to run for nomination for Circuit Attorney. I shall make known whom I want to back when there has been time for due consideration of the question."

Miller, Too, Is Waiting. Mayor Miller, who has joined Koeln in backing Henry S. Caulfield for the Republican nomination for the governorship, said today he believed any question as to his stand on Sidener's candidacy for Circuit Attorney was "premature."

"Wait until all the candidates have filed," he said. "Then I'll be able to say whom I favor for the nomination." The Mayor was asked if it was true that Robert J. Kratky, his campaign manager and closest political adviser, had aspired to be Circuit Attorney and that Mayor Miller had directed him not to run, in anticipation of throwing the Miller support to Sidener. "That's not true," he said. "As far as I know, Kratky has no desire to be Circuit Attorney and I am sure that I didn't tell him not to run."

Koeln's Reply to Schneider. Koeln also replied to the statement of William R. Schneider, candidate for the Republican nomination for the governorship, who charged yesterday that the Collector was taking more than his salary allowed him by the State Constitution. Schneider said that although Koeln's salary was limited to $10,000 a year, to be taken from tax collection fees, he also took more than $10,000 annually for the collection of State income taxes. "That question came up with the collection of the income tax in the first year of the income tax law," Koeln said. "I asked the State Auditor whether or not I was entitled to take my fees from income tax collections over and above the other collections. The Auditor appealed to the Attorney-General for a ruling. Later he informed me that the Attorney-General had held I was entitled to the fees."

At the offices of the Attorney-General and the State Auditor, in Jefferson City, a Post-Dispatch reporter was informed that no written memorandum approving Koeln's course could be found in the files. Attorney-General Gentry has refused to express an opinion unless requested by city or State officials. Mayor Miller today said that in his opinion the city had no interest, and that it was a matter for the State Auditor to consider, as that official supervises the income tax. City Counselor Muench will not give an opinion unless requested by the Mayor or the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

Schneider Writes to Mayor. Schneider today wrote Mayor Miller, in part, as follows: "It is quite natural that you should on first consideration take that view since the city receives no part of the State income tax. You overlook, however, the further fact that the expense of collecting the income tax is saddled by Collector Koeln entirely upon the general tax collections, thereby reducing the amount of excess commissions due the city and schools by that amount. This makes the action of Collector Koeln of vital moment to our city public schools and to the city of St. Louis, of which you are the responsible head, and I respectfully suggest that you can render our city a meritorious service in assisting me in my fight for honesty and efficiency in government, especially as pertains to the loss of income to the city of St. Louis and the public schools, as charged by me and admitted by Collector Koeln."

"Section 13124 R. S. 1919 is the section of the law under which Mr. Koeln assumes to pocket all the commissions on the income taxes. In construing that section, insofar as it applies to the Assessor, the Supreme Court of Missouri in the case of State ex rel. Buder vs. Hackman, 305 Mo., 1, C. 120, 265 S. W. 532, made the following statement: 'We regard as the plain provision of the statute that clerk or deputy hire shall be paid by the Assessor out of the fees received by him.'"

"The same, of course, applies to Collector Koeln, but he pays the expense of collecting the income tax out of excess commissions on the property tax which the schools and the city are properly entitled to receive."

Foristel's Statement. More than $37,000 has been kept by the Collector since 1923 in income tax fees. Concerning the legal phase of the situation, Foristel said:

GETS LIFE SENTENCE

ELMER SCHNEIDER.

tel, who is Koeln's attorney, made the following statement: "If Mr. Koeln had taken all the money I told him he could take out of that office he would have taken more, than that."

"State Auditor Thompson hit it about right when he said he considered the duty of collecting income taxes to be additional and entirely separate from the other duties of the Collector."

"Mr. Koeln has an interest on his daily balance which he is not required to turn in to the State. However, he does, and he's the only Collector in Missouri who does. That amounts to over $10,000 a year so Mr. Koeln's salary could really be $20,000 instead of $10,000 a year if he wanted to take the money."

OPEN VERDICT IN KILLING OF ALLEGED EXTORTIONIST. Coroner's Jury Finds "Persons Unknown" Responsible for Shooting of Tony Musso.

A Coroner's verdict of homicide at the hands of unknown persons was returned today at the inquest into the death of Tony Musso, alleged extortionist, shot to death in his barber shop at 2317 Cass avenue, Wednesday night by a young man who escaped in an automobile in which two other men were waiting.

Vito Larooca, Musso's apprentice barber, testified the slayer was a stranger to him. Tony Greco, who was conversing with Larooca in the rear of the shop, said he did not see the face of the man who fired the shot.

Policemen testified they were waiting in a Franklin avenue barber shop to arrest Musso as an extortionist suspect at the time he was shot.

Fourteen men, arrested for investigation after the killing, will be released.

LIQUOR DRIPPING THROUGH CEILING BETRAYS TWO STILLS. Acting on a report that liquor from a still on the second floor of 4343 Manchester avenue was leaking through the ceiling onto the wallpaper downstairs, police went there Wednesday night and found two 150-gallon capacity stills.

Several policemen waited until yesterday when a man appeared at the place and was arrested. He said he worked there for two men named Joe and Sam.

Police confiscated 1200 gallons of mash.

THIRD EX-CONVICT GETS LIFE DESPITE WITNESS' MURDER

Elmer Schneider Found Guilty of Payroll Robbery Under the Habitual Criminal Law.

A sentence of life imprisonment was returned against Elmer Schneider, 26-year-old ex-convict, by a Circuit Court jury which last night convicted him of being a payroll robber and an habitual criminal.

Thus the State has been successful against three ex-convicts, indicted for the $375 holdup at the William G. Nicklin tannery, 409 South Second street, Aug. 13, despite the murder of the chief witness, Odell Slattery, 18-year-old Negro.

Slattery worked as a "pony boy" in the nearby Blacksmith shop of "Honest John" Berne, where the robbery was planned by Berne and a group of hangers-on. Edward Taylor was tried first, identified by Slattery as the driver of the robbers' automobile, and given a life sentence under the habitual criminal law. Schneider was tried next and identified by Slattery as one of the robbers, but a jury failed to agree on a verdict.

Last week, on the eve of his scheduled appearance against Schneider and another defendant, Joseph Buschman — Schneider getting a second trial — Slattery was taken on an automobile ride and shot to death in St. Louis County.

The transcript of Slattery's testimony at previous trials was used against Buschman last week, and he got a life sentence. The transcript was used also against Schneider, and he got the same. Buschman and two other men have been indicted for the murder of Slattery.

Schneider was convicted after the jury had deliberated an hour and 35 minutes. He had offered an alibi that he was at home at the time of the Nicklin robbery, but the case against him was strengthened by the testimony of "Honest John" Berne that Schneider was one of the robbers. Berne was brought from the State penitentiary where he is serving a term for a St. Louis County robbery.

Taylor and Buschman are appealing from their convictions, and Schneider may do likewise.

HUGHES DEFENDS U. S. POLICY IN LATIN AMERICA

Charge That Government
Is Seeking to Dominate Seems Fantastic, He Says.

PRAISES WORK OF HAVANA CONFERENCE

Wickersham Assails Congress and States for Breakdown of Criminal Law Enforcement.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 27.—Charles Evans Hughes, head of the American delegation at the Havana Pan-American conference, told the American Society of International Law last night that any idea that the United States is seeking to dominate Latin-America "seems fantastic" to one who knows the sentiment of the American people.

Hughes' observations on the conference, made to the society of which he is president came at the close of a day marked with an address by Chief Justice Taft, who praised the American Law Institute in convention here for its efforts to codify criminal law "so that it can be quickly and properly administered."

The institute also heard George W. Wickersham, its president, place the blame squarely on Congress and the State Legislatures for "the delays and miscarriages of justice which characterize American criminal law." He deplored "their failure to build up a courageous judiciary as is necessary to withstand the popular clamor of the moment and maintain such vigorous and impartial enforcement of the criminal law as will make justice both sure and swift."

Hughes described the achievements of the Pan-American conference "at length, praising the spirit of the meeting, and emphasizing the common sentiment drawing the American continents together."

"Fortunately, in this hemisphere, we have a common political inheritance in our devotion to the ideals of liberty," he said. "We are all sons of the American revolutions. We have all revolted against tyranny. We have erected throughout the American continents the standards of national freedom and independence."

He termed the adoption of a liberal convention relating to aviation as one of the most important achievements of the conference. Col. Lindbergh's recent flights he described as a "prophecy of a new intimacy."

In the field of international law codification, Hughes also noted gratifying progress through the adoption of seven of the nine projects introduced at Havana. He said that the lack of definitions for "intervention and internal affairs" which caused defeat for the two projects brought a better result than complete codification, for "we strengthened the ties which are deeper than the law, and made firmer the mutual respect and confidence, without which the law is of slight avail."

Chief Justice Taft felicitated the members of the bench and bar present at the meeting for their work toward formulating a treatise on criminal law.

The people are beginning to stir up the legislators to their responsibilities in making law so that it can be quickly and properly administered, he said.

"I feel confident that as you go on and make this a full code it will be used in many Legislatures to improve the law—and we need it," he declared.

TWO IN AUTO HURT IN HEAD-ON COLLISION WITH STREET CAR

Albert McElroy and John O'Donnell Suffer Skull Fractures in Crash at 6016 Virginia Av.

Two men were injured seriously when an automobile in which they were driving collided head-on with a Bellefontaine street car at 6016 Virginia avenue at 12:15 a. m. today.

Albert McElroy, 3906 St. Ferdinand avenue, and John O'Donnell, 3737 Maffitt avenue, both 21-year-old automobile mechanics, were unconscious when extricated from the wrecked automobile and removed to City Hospital. Physicians said they were suffering from skull fractures and alcoholism. The force of the collision pushed the engine back against the seats they occupied.

The street car was southbound and the automobile was traveling north, at a speed of about 35 miles an hour. Homer Murphy, the street car motorman, applied his brakes when he saw the automobile coming towards him on the track. The street car was near a standstill when the automobile crashed against it.

COOLIDGE GIVES OBJECTIONS TO FLOOD CONTROL BILL

Opposition to House Amendments Necessitates Sending of Measure to Conference

WASHINGTON, April 27.—President Coolidge having expressed objection to some of the House amendments to the Mississippi River flood control bill, the measure must go to conference, where efforts will be made to make such changes as will meet presidential views.

The President's objections were made known yesterday to Chairman Jones of the Senate Commerce Committee, author of the $225-

000,000 measure, and will be outlined in more detail in a memorandum which Mr. Coolidge will send to the Senate today. At that time the Commerce Committee will consider the bill as the House changed it and after the President's views have been studied, Senator Jones will move that the bill be sent back to the House with a request for a conference.

OTTAWA, Ill., April 27.—Harry Hill, young alleged matricide, was admitted to $20,000 bond today when Judge Joe A. Davis sustained the defense's challenge of the jury list drawn for the youth's second murder trial and continued the case until next September.

BUILDERS OPPOSE 5-DAY WEEK BUT UNIONS ADOPT IT

Contractors in General
Over Country Are Against Innovation, Survey of 75 Cities Discloses

Contractors in general are opposed to the proposed universal adoption of the five-day week for building trades mechanics, a recent survey conducted by the National Association of Building Trades Employers in 75 cities of the United States and Canada discloses.

The survey further shows that agitation for the shortened working week is strongest in cities where unions face serious competition through the "open shop" plan. Contractors in 40 cities reporting are openly opposed to the shortened week, while in several cities, where unions have succeeded in putting the plan into effect, it has been done over the protest of employers. St. Louis is in the latter group.

Union painters, plasterers and lathers pioneered the plan, since endorsed by the American Federation of Labor for all crafts, the survey shows. Painters have established the shortened week in 17 cities; plasterers and lathers in 15 cities; bricklayers and plumbers, seven localities; electricians, five; and carpenters, four.

Plan Adopted in St. Louis.
In St. Louis the plasterers, lathers and electricians adopted the five-day week six months ago, cement finishers and elevator constructors put the plan into effect recently and the carpenters' local union, a group of about 4000 workmen, is to put it into effect May 1. The Painters' District Council, another large local group, voted to reduce working time to five days beginning June 1, but, in a subsequent announcement, stated they will be regulated by other crafts, as they are among those most affected by weather conditions.

The general consensus of contractors is that the shortened working week is against all principles of economy, encourages idleness, will increase construction costs, will be the basis for increased overtime pay, and is detrimental to the interests of the public and the construction industry.

Green's Views Opposed.
Contradicting a recent statement of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the plan is a definite step toward an adjustment of time needed for production over the entire year instead of lumping it in seasonal slumps, organized contractors of Chicago declare that a contractor in both dull and busy seasons of the year employs only enough men to do his work.

"Sponsors of the plan, which is in the experimental stage in Chicago, overlook the fact that a job in dull times or busy times does not take any more men, nor give employment to any idle men," the contractors declared.

The survey would seem to indicate that Green's statement that the labor movement is not seeking to force the five-day week on any industry, that is not ready for it is not being carried out literally. Organized contractors in St. Louis repeatedly have expressed public disapproval of the plan, but indications are that all crafts in the local Building Trades Council will have adopted the plan before the end of the year. Several crafts have declared 1 against the measure, but will be forced to take Saturday off because of the idleness of other crafts.

FEDERAL UNEMPLOYMENT INVESTIGATION PROPOSED

Means of Relieving Situation Also Sought in Joint Resolution
Before Congress.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 27.—A joint Congressional committee to investigate unemployment and methods of relieving it is proposed in a joint resolution offered in both Houses of Congress. Senator La Follette (Rep.), Wisconsin, sponsored the measure in the Senate, and Representative Jacobstein (Dem.), New York, in the House. Both measures were referred to the Labor Committee. "Nothing of importance has ever been done by the Federal Government to measure, prevent or relieve unemployment," said a joint statement issued by the authors of the resolutions. "The United States today is the only important civilized country in the world which has failed to plan for, or aid in the relief of unemployment."

MRS. GOODHUE 79 YESTERDAY

By the Associated Press.
NORTHAMPTON, Mass., April 27.—Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, who has been confined to the Dickinson Hospital since last Dec. 11 as a result of an attack of influenza, observed her seventy-ninth birthday yesterday.

Her room at the hospital was filled with flowers sent by her daughter from the White House and she received numerous birthday gifts. Miss Miriam Curtis, superintendent of the hospital, reported that Mrs. Goodhue was quite comfortable.

REPLIES TO CRITICISM OF CALL FOR SERUM

Specialist Who Attended Floyd Bennett Answers Canadian Officials' Attack.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Dr. Alvan L. Barach, New York specialist who attended Floyd Bennett during the aviator's fatal illness at Jeffrey Hale Hospital, Quebec, has sent to John D. Rockefeller Jr. a letter of appreciation for his help in efforts to save Bennett's life.

High praise was paid to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who flew through snow and rain to Quebec with pneumonia serum furnished by the Rockefeller Foundation, and Dr. Barach explained that although he might have obtained sufficient serum in Montreal, he was "particularly anxious to get serum from the New York City Department of Health" since it "had many advantages over that available in other quarters."

The letter followed severe criticism by Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec and other provincial officials who felt that serum available in Canada would have been as useful as that brought to the hospital by Col. Lindbergh.

"There was no serum available in the City of Quebec," Dr. Barach wrote. "I was later informed that serum could be had in Montreal, but I was particularly anxious to get the type 2 serum from the New York City Department of Health."

Taschereau criticized the flight to Canada with serum from New York, saying the Canadians had everything necessary, both scientists and serum. He termed the flight a "vulgar and spectacular publicity stunt" in which unnamed persons had made use of Lindbergh's reputation to further their selfish aims.

Hospital Head Defends Importation of Serum for Bennett.

By the Associated Press.

QUEBEC, Que., April 27.—High praise for the part played by individuals and organizations in the United States in the vain effort to save the life of Floyd Bennett was voiced today by Dr. W. H. Delaney, superintendent of the Jeffrey Hale Hospital, where the aviator died of pneumonia Wednesday.

"It was on the bare chance that this serum might help Bennett that it was brought here by Col. Lindbergh," Dr. Delaney said. "It was an honest effort to assist in a very desperate situation."

URGES TRANSFER OF THREE CHICAGO CRIMINAL JUDGES

Crime Commission Charges
Collusion in Permitting Serious Charges to Be Waived.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 27.—Removal of three judges from the Criminal Court bench has been demanded by the Chicago Crime Commission. A break down in law enforcement is charged and an alliance between politics and criminals is held responsible.

The statement of the Commission, a non-official organization, singled out Judges Emanuel Eiler, Stanley H. Klarkowski and Otto Kerner, and pointed to the records of their courts for the last three months for substantiation of its charges.

These judges, the statement said, "were put on the bench by politicians, against the protests and votes of the Chicago Bar Association."

"The man who runs may read from the record why politics needed them on the bench," the statement continued. "During these three months there was only one trial and capital conviction for murder, and that not of a gunman but of a doctor who had performed an illegal operation."

Serious Charges Waived.

"During the same three months fully 490 jurors were in daily attendance waiting to be called to try such murderers and gunmen as had been indicted and arrested; but it was easier to waive gun counts and secure pleas of guilty to minor offenses of which the criminals were not guilty, and so make a cheap record of convictions for the State's Attorney and the Judges."

"In short, it was politics in full swing in the State's Attorney's office and on the Criminal Court bench."

"These Judges should not sit a day longer in the Criminal Court. If they will not voluntarily retire, then the other Judges of the Circuit and Superior Courts who placed them in the Criminal Court should recall them and assign to the Criminal Court Judges who will enforce the laws against criminals."

The waiving of felony charges for pleas of guilty to minor offenses was the chief complaint of the commission. Growth of the system has been pointed out in previous reports which have shown that all Judges have granted such waivers. Judges Eiler, Klarkowski and Kerner, however, were singled out because of the large number of such cases in their courts, the statement said.

No venality was charged; only a system of permitting criminals to escape trial on major charges and take light sentences on other charges.

Defense of Judges.

Judges Klarkowski and Kerner replied with statements defending their actions and asserting that their assignment to the criminal bench was not a matter of choice with them.

15 GERMAN COTTON MILL MEN STOP IN ST. LOUIS AFTER TOUR

Manufacturers Have Made Connections With Planters in South for Purchase of Product.

Fifteen proprietors of cotton and textile mills of Germany are in St. Louis today, returning from a tour of the cotton growing states of the South, where they studied conditions and problems of planters. One of the benefits of the trip has been the establishment of connections with planters, by which the manufacturers henceforth will be able to place their orders for cotton direct, saving jobbers' commissions which they have paid in part, the tourist said.

The visitors went through wholesale dry goods houses of St. Louis this morning and departed at noon for Chicago. Those in the party are: Theodor Schwartz, president of the Rhenish-Westphalian Cotton Spinners' Association; Franz Beckmann, Bocholt, Westphalia; Heins Brandt, representative of the textile industry on the Lower Rhine; Theodor Goisman, Rheidt, Germany; Hermann Haertl, Bocholt; William Hageboeck, Borsdorf; August Kuempers and Paul Jackson, Rhineland; Bernhard Laurenz, Ochtrup, Westphalia; Heinrich Pferlemenges of Giesenkirchen; George Schmidt, Weidam; Louis Schoeller, Dueren; Carl Weyl, Kartsadt; and Rudolph and Adolph Kuehne of Rhenish, Westphalia.

SHELTON BROTHERS RELEASED

Judge Granting Writ of Superse-des Sets Bonds at $15,000 Each.

VANDALIA, Ill., April 27.—The three Shelton brothers—Carl, Earl and Bernie—East St. Louis gangsters convicted of bank robbery at Taylorville, last January, were released on appeal bonds of $15,000 each by Judge William Farmer, who granted a writ of superse-des in their case to the Illinois Supreme Court here yesterday.

Their original bonds expired yesterday and Christian County authorities had planned to declare them forfeited.

The Sheltons are appealing from their conviction on the ground that one of the State's chief witnesses at their trial has made affidavit he perjured himself.

DEFENDS CARL SCHURZ'S GERMAN-AMERICAN ATTITUDE
Dr. Goebel, Professor Emeritus of Illinois U., Assails Criticism of War Propagandists.

Criticism of World War propagandists for "misrepresenting and distorting" the attitude of Carl Schurz toward preservation of the German language and culture in the United States was voiced by Dr. Julius Goebel, professor emeritus of Germanic languages in the University of Illinois, before the St. Louis Steuben Society last night in Liederkreis Hall.

To disprove the stand of certain wartime writers, Dr. Goebel referred to his personal relations with the German-American leader, quoting from his correspondence to show that Schurz to the time of his death urgently admonished his countrymen in America to serve their language and to encourage German political activity. Seven leaders in the textile industry who are members of the St. Louis Steuben Society at the

MISSING

TEDDY KOESTER.

CLEW FAILS IN SEARCH FOR 4-YEAR-OLD BOY

Mrs. Theodore Koester Finds Waif in Chicago Is Not Her Son, Gone 6 Months.

The search for tow-headed, blue-eyed Teddy Koester, 4 years old, who has been missing for six months, recently took his mother, Mrs. Theodore Koester, to Chicago where a waif of his description had been found on the streets. Mrs. Koester believed her search was ended. Chicago police showed her a picture of the boy there, published in a police bulletin, and she was sure of it. Then a police-woman took her to the boy, and she saw at a glance that he was not her son.

Mrs. Koester is back in St. Louis today, confident that Teddy will turn up some time. He disappeared Nov. 4 when the Koesters and a party of friends were on an outing at a clubhouse on the Missouri River near Black Jack, Mo. Was Playing Near River.

Teddy had been playing outside the clubhouse when last seen. His footprints were discovered after he disappeared. In the soft mud at the edge of the river, but he had been playing there earlier in the day, his mother said. And the footprints were all clear and even—no sign of a slip which might have plunged him into the river.

"Besides," says Mrs. Koester, "we stayed there for nine days looking for him and found no trace. There were men working on a bridge down the river and surely if he had drowned someone would have seen his body."

"I had just scolded Teddy for kicking the dogs, two hound puppies he had been playing with. He was very angry with me. I went back into the house to get dinner ready for the men who were hunting on the river. Fifteen minutes later I called and he didn't answer. I went out and there were the dogs still playing in the sun, but Teddy was gone. I think he just got mad and walked away."

Thinks He Was Picked Up. No one has reported seeing Teddy as he walked to the old James-town road—if that is the course he took—although either of two paths from the clubhouse would have led him past a farm house. But his mother thinks he made his way to the road and was picked up by a passerby.

The search for him has been hampered by lack of information. "We really haven't had anything to work on," his mother said. "A while ago a woman wrote us from Illinois that she heard of a boy who might be Teddy, who was found in a small town in Missouri, but nothing came of that. We wired the Sheriff but didn't even get an answer. Then last week a neighbor heard from a relative in Chicago about the boy there. When I saw the picture I was sure it was Teddy, but the picture didn't look much like the boy himself."

Teddy is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Koester who live at 477 Labadie avenue. Koester operates a filling station in Pine Lawn.

DEATH OF BONDSMAN ARKY'S BROTHER HELD ACCIDENTAL

East St. Louis Clothing Merchant Was Killed by Auto Driven by High School Student.

A coroner's verdict of accident was returned today at an inquest into the death of Herman Arky, brother of Sam Arky, professional bondsman, who was killed by an automobile Tuesday night.

The inquest had been continued from Wednesday to enable police to locate additional witnesses, but none was obtained.

Testimony of the five occupants of an automobile driven by Milton Helfrich, 17-year-old East St. Louis boy, was that Arky had alighted from a street car at Broadway and Salisbury street and walked around it into the path of the automobile. Arky was 34 years old, a clothing merchant, and lived at 122 North Nineteenth street, East St. Louis.

OLD BREWMASTER HELD ON CHARGE OF MAKING BEER

Edward Engel, 29 Years With Hyde Park Co. Arrested With Two Others
 by Dry Agents in County

Edward Engel, brewmaster for 29 years at the Hyde Park Brewery, has been working only part time since prohibition. He looked around for additional work and got it. Now he is under arrest.

Prohibition agents yesterday afternoon found Engel in charge of a two-man brewery in the basement of a bungalow on Britton avenue, south of Heege road, St.
 Louis County. The professional touch lent by Engel's experienced hand was evident. There was efficient equipment, filtering, carbonating and bottling beer.
 There were blocks of ice on hand for refrigeration. There were two vats containing 3000 gallons of beer, and 500 gallons of beer mash. Two hundred cases of clean bottles, 24 bottles to the case, were stacked at one side.

Prohibition agents, accustomed to raiding dirty, ill-smelling, inefficient homebrew resorts were astonished by Engel's business-like establishment. Engel and a companion, Carl Brunick, were arrested. Mike Kraft, saloonkeeper of Venice, Ill., was arrested a few minutes later when he drove up in his automobile with some iron fittings.

Then came explanations. Engel said he had been hired yesterday morning at $5 a day by a man he met on the street, and whose name is unknown to him. Brun-ick, who said he was a real estate salesman, asserted he had gone to the basement to talk over a business matter with Engel. Kraft frankly admitted he intended to assist in the basement work "so I could get some good beer for my saloon."

 WASHINGTON, April 27.—Commander Julio Ruiz de Alca, Spanish aviator, is in Washington collecting data to be used in an attempt to encircle the globe by air in 35 days. The flight, spon-

 Argentina.

Ruiz will leave for Spain May 9 departure from Cadiz, Aug. 1.

 The Spaniards plan to fly to New York by way of the Azores. The next stage will be to Havana, thence across the Gulf of Mexico and Mexico. They will follow the Pa-carried them across the South Atlantic to Buenos Aires.

Glycerine Mixture Helps Bad Stomach

"Every time I ate I had terrible stomach gas and sourness. Now, thanks to Adlerika, I eat even steak and fried onions and feel fine."—Mrs. J. Julian.

The simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, salin, etc. (known as Adlerika), has a most surprising DOUBLED action. First, it acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel (most medicines act on lower bowel only) and removes food matter that often causes the system for months. Second, Adlerika clears all GAS and sourness from stomach and bowels, bringing INSTANT relief from stomach trouble. And in addition, Adlerika removes metabolic poisons which cause neuritis, rheumatism, etc.

writes: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing, checks the growth of intestinal bacteria and bacilli."

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 35 years' practice, I have found nothing to excel Adlerika." J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated." It will astonish you the great amount of poisonous matter Adlerika brings out—matter you would never believe was in your system. In chronic constipation, gas bloating, sour stomach and sick head, just ONE spoonful Adlerika brings wonderful relief. At leading druggists. Sold in St. Louis by Wolf-Weiss Drug Stores and other druggists.

SAYS FIRESTONE LEASE IS MENACE TO LIBERIA

Writer Asserts Concession Closes Door There and Exploits Labor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—In "The Native Problem in Africa," a two-volume work just published by the Macmillan Co., written under the auspices of the Committee of International Research of Harvard University, Raymond Leslie Buell, formerly assistant professor of government at Harvard and now research director of the Foreign Policy Association, gives a detailed account of the Firestone rubber concessions in Liberia and the new American loan.

In his report in regard to Liberia, Buell criticizes the activities of the State Department and of Secretary of Commerce Hoover in promoting American rubber and financial interests in Liberia. He states the million-acre concession obtained by the Firestone interests establishes the closed door in Liberia, and will result in the confiscation of native land and in compulsory native labor.

Labor at a Cent a Day. Already, according to the report, the Liberian government has established a Labor Bureau which furnishes Firestone with laborers at a cent a man a day. The report states that the French and British Governments deliberately have excluded European plantations from the West Coast of Africa, believing that they are detrimental to native interests, but the United States Government has thrown its weight in favor of that system as opposed to small native farms.

"In negotiating for his million-acre concession, Firestone," the report says, "insisted that the Liberian Government contract a 7 per cent loan of $5,000,000. 'Instead of lowering interest charges, this refunding operation actually increases them. It refunds a 1912 5 per cent loan, which would have been paid off in 1952 with a 7 per cent loan which will not expire until 1967. The loan agreement also authorizes American officials designated by the President of the United States, to supervise the collection of the internal and external revenues of Liberia, and to audit all expenditures."

Insisted on Loan. "Mr. Firestone's insistence on this loan was due to a desire to exclude the possibility of French or British control over the country which would impair his investment. Liberians originally were unanimous against accepting the loan agreement, but the Government finally accepted it because of alleged pressure of the State Department of the United States."

In the Union of South Africa, the color problem, according to the report, is of the utmost seriousness. But Buell believes Gen. Hertzog is the first Prime Minister in the history of the Union to think out the problem and to propose a program which attempts to protect white and black interests alike. Gen. Hertzog has introduced legislation to build up parallel white and black communities, each living a relatively self-sufficient existence. Buell intimates that the establishment of the proposed dominion of British East Africa would have serious consequences on the 12,000,000 natives who inhabit that part of the continent.

Kenya, a white man's colony, the center of the movement, already obliges about 55 per cent of the male natives to leave the reserves and work for European farmers. The writer believes that the future of East Africa rests with the Mandates Commission of the League of Nations, which has control over the mandate of Tanganyika territory.

Belgian Congo Still Suffers. The Belgian Congo, Buell finds, still is suffering from the heritage of Leopold II's regime in the Congo Free State. The Government today holds many shares in Congo mines and plantations which affects its labor policy. The report states that compulsory labor for private purposes has been widespread throughout the Congo. In the French territories, the writer finds that the Government has done much to promote native education and health. Nevertheless, the report shows that the French judicial system, lacking a penal code and the right of appeal, vests almost complete power in the hands of political officials. The writer suggests that the French, who are abandoning their old doctrine of "assimilation" in favor of "association," should restore traditional chiefs, re-establish native courts and bring into existence native treasuries.

Heavy Burdens in French Africa. The report finds that in French West and Equatorial Africa forced labor for private purposes has existed, that native land has in several instances been confiscated, and that the system of military conscription imposed heavy burdens on the natives. Likewise, the Government has forbidden the use of the native language, and in order to relieve the financial situation at home, it has imposed on West African compulsory contributions.

In other parts of Africa, such as Uganda, Nigeria and the Gold Coast, the writer believes that native needs and European industrialism are being successfully reconciled. In those territories the British Government has encouraged the native small farm system of production, with the result that the Gold Coast is a large producer of cocoa and Nigeria of palm oil.

JOHN BASSETT MOORE TO QUIT HAGUE COURT

His Place Is Expected to Be Filled by Another American.

By ARTHUR E. MANN, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World. Copyright, 1928, by the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, April 27.—John Bassett Moore, leading American authority on international law, is resigning his position as Judge of the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague. It is learned authoritatively.

The judges of this court are elected for life and it is not known here why Moore is relinquishing his post. He had the seat which is considered in League of Nations generally to be reserved for the United States.

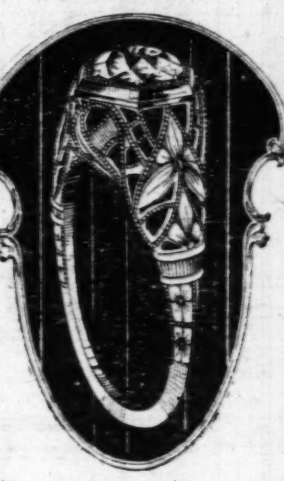

The judges are elected by the League council and assembly together, which means Moore's place will not be filled until the next assembly meeting at Geneva in September.

Meanwhile it is understood the League secretariat at Geneva will request American law organizations to suggest the name of another jurist from the United States. Although it is likely other countries will offer nominees in September, it is almost certain that if another American is nominated he will be elected.

Judge Moore, who is 67 years old, has been a member of the permanent court since it was organized in 1921 and has helped frame most of its important rulings.

BOY TRIPLETS PLACED IN DIFFERENT HOMES

Foster Parents in Each Case, Won by Lads, Would Take
All, if Necessary.

Foster parents have been found for a set of triplets, brought to the quarters of the Children's Home Society of Missouri from a Springfield, Mo., hospital, three months ago. They were kept together at the children's home, 4427 Margaret avenue, in the hope that the three children, all boys, could be placed in one home. However, no one could be found who would take all three, and now the children are in three separate homes, one of them outside St. Louis.

The triplets are 2 years old and are almost exact duplicates of one another. They are almost exactly the same size and each has brown hair and brown eyes. They have unusually winsome dispositions, officials of the home said, and since they have been taken into separate homes, each child's foster parents have expressed a willingness to take the other two should something untoward happen in the other homes. None however, is willing to surrender the child taken.

The children were chosen from among more than 40 others who are at the home for adoption. Their given names are John, James and Peter. Their mother, who is said to live near Springfield, told she was unable to support them properly and permitted them to remain at the hospital where they were born for some time in the hope some one in better circumstances would take them. Finally they were sent to the St. Louis home because of that organization's greater facilities for finding a home for them.

Shot in Row About Woman.
Following an altercation about a woman who was with them, D. L. Thompson of Duplo, Ill., was shot in the chest by N. K. Dexter, also of Duplo, as they were returning home from East St. Louis early today, Thompson told police. He is at St. Mary's Hospital. Dexter and the woman are held at East St. Louis Police Headquarters. Neither made a statement.

Runner Spends $50,000 Trying to Win $25,000

Among Those in Cross-Country Footrace Is Millionaire's Son, Convoys by Two De Luxe Busses and Kitchen.

By THOMAS DAWSON.
C. C. Pyle's coast-to-coast foot race, that passes through St. Louis today, is not without its bizarre figures.
There is Harry Gunn, 26-year-old son of F. F. Gunn, California millionaire, whose race already has cost him $50,000. First prize in the race is $25,000.

Gunn's entourage includes one Pierce-Arrow roadster, one de luxe motor bus equipped with hair mattresses and a special refrigerator for soda pop, and a second de luxe kitchen outfit and a Louis Quinze dining room.

Gunn has a paid trainer and a special cook. His father, a food products manufacturer, speeds up and down the course throughout the day, his eye fixed on the runners. Every 30 minutes the bus equipped with the refrigerator stops at Gunn's elbow and he tosses off a bottle of pop. After four hours on the road, the runner halts at bus No. 2 and partakes of a hot lunch in the Louis Quinze dining room.

Has Not Run a Step.
Gunn is the one man in the race who has walked the full 2012 miles from Los Angeles to New York. A baker's dozen of walking records and believes he will be up front late in May when the van of the foot derby reaches Manhattan. By that time, both Gunn and his trainer believe, the runners in the race will have burned out their hearts and legs. Gunn is now in thirty-third position, about 180 hours behind the leaders. He averages about 4 miles an hour, while Gavuzzi and Payne have maintained a pace of about 5.8 miles an hour.

Several thousand dollars have been spent in behalf of Andy Payne, Oklahoma plowboy, who led the field up to Wednesday, when he slipped 30 minutes behind slight Peter Gavuzzi, Italian ship steward running under British colors. A touring car and a motorcycle take the course daily to keep Payne running. Gavuzzi, 22 years old, weighing 120 pounds, is running a strong race. He scoffs at adjurations against cigarettes and smokes both before and after each daily grind.

Gets Food Every Two Hours.
Gavuzzi and three other British contestants noted their finances in February and are paying for extras out of their common holdings. Gavuzzi takes carefully measured nourishment every two hours on the road—orange juice, meat sandwiches—hot tea, Gavuzzi, 22 years old, weighing 120 pounds, is running a strong race. He scoffs at adjurations against cigarettes and smokes both before and after each daily grind.

More than $2500 has been expended to date on Paul A. Smith, Oregon miner, who has won several marathons in the Northwest. Amounts spent in behalf of other men—for trainers, cars and special foods apart from regulation meals—vary from $500 up. The contestants who lack trainers and pocket money for extras—neat, clean hotel beds, essential sugars, and the like—are not considered to have much chance to place for money.

Men With Trainers Lead.
The first three prizes—$25,000, $10,000 and $5,000—might be worth while for most of the entrants. But if Paul Smith, the Oregon miner, took fourth place, he wouldn't break even, considering the amount expended to keep him in condition. And if "Andy" Payne placed fifth or sixth—winning $1000—he would still be out a substantial sum. The men showing "form" in the race are almost without exception the men who have trainers.

In sharp contrast to Gunn is George Rehayn, German mechanic, who has hardly a shirt to his back and runs in a pair of ancient steel-gray pants held up by garters. He snuffs his suspenders against his lean chest at the finish line every day and bursts into an off-key German song. He is his own trainer and has to massage his own aching legs.
Otto Wanting, pocket-size Finn, is the lightest man in the race. He weighs 95 pounds. He runs close to the road. With his coat on, on a cold morning, he is often mistaken for a schoolboy pacing his runners. He is 31 years old.

Doctor Has Tireless Stride.
Close to Wanting, a fast "stretch" man is William Kerr, tall, trimly-built physician of Minneapolis and one of the aces of the race. Kerr trained for the Pyle race by walking 2600 miles to Dallas, Tex. He runs two-thirds of the daily distance and paces the rest in the stride of the finished walker. Kerr was a track man at Minnesota University and recently was graduated from Rush Medical College. He is running about 37 hours behind Gavuzzi. He has a long tireless stride.
Philip J. Hinkle, large, big-boned Jamaica Negro, walking champion of Canada, is in fourth place. He is credited with extraordinary staying powers. Most of the entries walk uphill but Granville takes them at a jaunty running stride. He laughs when the other contestants tell him he will be burned out before Chicago.

Running back of Granville, is Mike Joyce, 40-year-old bartender of Cleveland, O., father of five children. Of medium height, he has powerful broad shoulders and huge calves. He had finished near

NOBLE HOPES TO MEET WILKINS AT SPITZBERGEN

Italian Aviator Anxious to Get Information Obtained in Their Arctic Flight.

By the Associated Press.
STOLP, Germany, April 27.—Gen. Nobile, returning from Berlin, where he was received in audience by President von Hindenburg, expressed pleasure at the possibility that Capt. Wilkins and Lieut. Eliason, the polar flyers, would await him at Spitzbergen and place at his service information gained during their flight.

"I hope very much that I shall meet them," Nobile said. "Two days ago I wired congratulations to Capt. Wilkins. I am as keen as can be to learn what they saw and investigated."

Nobile said that his dirigible Italia was merely waiting for word that the Citta di Milano, his supply ship, has arrived at Spitzbergen. "After that, we will hold ourselves in readiness to fly my moment that meteorological conditions are right," he said.

PLANSKY LEADS IN DECATHLON AFTER 5 EVENTS

By the Associated Press.

FRANKLIN FIELD, Philadelphia, April 27.—Tony Plansky, twice winner of the event, took the lead over a crack array of all-around athletes today in the intercollegiate decathlon championship, opening day feature of the Pennsylvania relay carnival.

After completing five of the ten events, the former Georgetown star, now representing the Saint Alphonsus A. of Boston, ran up a total of 2778.7105 points.

Tom Churchill Oklahoma star and winner of the Kansas relay decathlon, held third place with 2511.255 points, the result of consistently good work while Barney Berlinger, sensational Pennsylvania freshman, was fourth with 2573.4225 points.

Eighteen athletes started the all-around struggle and only one, Jack McIntosh of Monmouth (Ill.) College, dropped out after the first half of the program was completed. The remaining five events of the test which has the status of an official Olympic event, will be held tomorrow.

Plansky won only one event, the shot put, but performed consistently enough to hold a slight lead for the day's work in the relay over Kenneth Doherty, Detroit, who captured the broad jump and tallied 2762.501 points.

"Whitey" Lloyd, Naval Academy, captured both the 100 and 400 meter races but his poor showing in the other events forced him down to seventh place.

Vernon Kennedy, last year's champion, appeared off form and was in eleventh position, virtually out of the running.

The remaining point total score: Fifth, Virgil Elliott, Bethany College, 2562.651; sixth, Ray Monahan, University of New Mexico, 2518.221; seventh, Russell Lloyd, Naval Academy, 2555.2685; eighth, Walter Gumbly Jr., Dickinson College, 2597.8005; ninth, W. R. O'Dell, Clemson College, 2557.4665; tenth, Sexton, Georgetown, 2549.885; eleventh, Vernon Kennedy, 2539.461; twelfth, Harrison Thomson, Princeton, 2525.0795; thirteenth, Allan Logan, Atlanta, 2508.709; fourteenth, R. L. Todd, Indiana, 2517.9705; fifteenth, Donald C. Foster, Baltimore, 2510.0065; sixteenth, Alden Holsinger, Juniata College, 2585.2235; seventeenth, William Elliott, Maryland, 2546.186; eighteenth, Jack McIntosh, Monmouth (Illinois) College, 2522.9655 (withdrew after four events).

Two Tie in College Relay. FRANKLIN FIELD, Philadelphia, April 27.—In an intercollegiate battle of sprint stars, the crack quartets of Pennsylvania and Penn State emerged tied for first place in the quarter mile intercollegiate relay championship, final of the Quakers and their home state rivals were timed in 42-5-5 seconds for the 410-yard race, which was run in heats because of the size of the field.

Dartmouth, runnerup to Pennsylvania in the first heat, took third place in the final standing with 42-4-5 seconds while Ohio State, time, 42 seconds, gained fourth position.

The special 120-yard high hurdle race was won by Earl Westcott, Holy Cross, in a close brush with Elmo Caruthers, Cornell.

OHIO WESLEYAN WILL. PLAY NAVY TEAM IN '29. By the Associated Press. DELAWARE, O., April 27.—Ohio Wesleyan University's football team will meet the United States Military Academy eleven in 1929. It was announced here today by athletic officials upon completion of a contract for the game.

The intercollegiate game with the Army will close the Ohio Wesleyan season, the contract setting the contest for Nov. 23, 1929, at West Point.

Negotiations were initiated by officers of the United States Military Academy, an unsolicited offer by Army received here some weeks ago.

BROWN FLASH WINS JAMAICA FEATURE RACE

By the Associated Press.

JAMAICA, N. Y., April 27.—Coming from last place to first in the stretch, Frederick Johnson's Brown Flash, carrying 126 pounds, and ridden by Peterson, scored in a sensational finish in the Merck Handicap, mile and 70 yards feature here today. Brown Flash came at one time was 20 lengths back of the leader, but in the last half mile he closed a tremendous gap to win.

Washington took the place with Dangerous third. Weeburn was fourth and last.

Weeburn jumped away to a fast lead and turned into the back stretch leading Washington by four lengths. While Dangerous was third, eight lengths back, and Brown Flash last, Washakie raced by the Weeburn on the turn, but in the stretch Brown Flash came with a rush and won by a length. Washakie held on to the place by half a length from Dangerous.

BRITISH GOLFER 14 UP ON HAGEN AFTER 36 HOLES

By the Associated Press.

MOOR PARK, England, April 27.—Walter Hagen, American golfer, was far in the rear at the finish of the first 36 holes of his 72-hole golf match with Archie Compston, British professional, today. Compston being 14 up.

Two rounds of devastating golf put Hagen in almost hopeless position. Never has a London golfing gallery seen an American star of Hagen's caliber in such helpless straits as Hagen was all day long before the faultless game displayed by Compston.

Two rounds of 67 and 66 on a par 70 course, with 12 birdies included in Compston's score, made Hagen's golf seem really worse than it really was.

Compston outclassed Hagen in all the phases of the game on the outward journey and smothered his opponent with a flock of five birdies, holding putts from all corners of the green. He added two birdies on the homeward journey but Hagen had recovered and steady par figures with one birdie led him chop down his opponent's lead by one.

Compston's golf was unbeatable. His 66 was a stroke of a stroke of Sandy Herd's course record of 65.

The cards: First 18 holes: Compston, 4 4 5 5 4 4 3 3 3 2 Hagen, 5 4 5 5 5 4 4 4 3 28 Compston, 4 4 5 5 4 4 5 4 3 27 Hagen, 5 4 5 5 4 4 5 4 3 27

TOMORROW CHAMPION DUNDEE SCORES TECHNICAL KAYO MATCH WITH DRAKO

NEW WRESTLERS SHOW ON LOCAL CARD TONIGHT

By Dent McSkimming.

One of the most interesting things about tonight's wrestling show at the Coliseum is the absence of Ed Lewis, world's champion. Big Ed wasn't invited to the party. It is also significant that in all the numerous shows held in New York and Philadelphia in the past three months, Big Ed has always been absent. He won the title by pinning Joe Stecher here last February, but no one seems to believe it. There is a promoters' war on against Billy Sandow, Lewis' manager, hence no matches for the champ.

Departing from the usual custom of billing one "main" event and several supporting bouts, promoter Packer tonight puts on three bouts of equal standing and one preliminary. The three big bouts will be one-fall affairs, limited to one hour. The first man to get a fall, within the hour, wins the match.

Nat Pendleton, former Olympic champion whose record shows that his shoulders have never been pinned to the mat, will be introduced in a match with Renato Gardini, the stunning, sloping Italian. Pendleton weighs 265 pounds and Gardini about 195.

Paul Jones and Dick Davis are opponents in one of the bouts and Jimmy London is scheduled to meet Jack Humbert, a Spaniard. In the preliminary, Gene Ledac will meet Tommy Marvin.

Pendleton's presence gives a bit of color to the card. He is one of the few American-born contenders in the top flight of heavyweight ranks. He has met many of the first fight, including Zbyszko, Sienkiewicz, Romanowicz, Peck, Steinke and others. This will be his first meeting with Gardini. Pendleton beat Robert Roth, a giant Swiss, in Paris in 1924 for the heavyweight championship of Europe. He won his Olympic title in 1920. His favorite hold is the hammer lock.

Dundee, welterweight champion, scored technical knockout over Billy Drako at Coliseum in third round. Weight, 135 pounds.

Frankie Omer of St. Louis and Charlie Glaser of Chicago. Draw, 10 rounds. Weight, 130 pounds.

Meyer Grace (144) of Chicago knocked out Lester Martin (141½) of St. Louis in one round.

Don Dean of St. Louis defeated Mann Dugan of St. Louis, six rounds. Light-heavyweights.

Ray Palmer defeated Joe Thompson, both of St. Louis, three rounds. Weight, 126 pounds.

By Damon Kerby.

Champion Joe Dundee was rated as one of the coldest boxers in the profession in financial affairs several months ago when he refused to fight Ace Hudkins in Los Angeles, after the custom had been set, when the promoter could not produce his full guarantee.

And that thin-lipped, grim-faced young Italian-American proved to be as cold-blooded in the ring as he was in business when he hammered Billy Drako of Germany into submission in three rounds last night at the Coliseum before about 2500 spectators.

Dundee got through the first and second rounds with studied deliberation, but Drako off with his left hand and rocked him repeatedly with ripping right uppercuts until the third, one-sided at best, turned into a massacre.

Dundee backed Drako into the ropes and shot vicious rights and lefts to the head and mid-section, when it was apparent that Drako was out on his feet, his hands tossed in a towel, in acknowledgment of defeat.

Both boxers entered the ring at 10 o'clock. Dundee had an advantage in both hands and strength. Drako's main force was in his left, sixth and eighth. Dundee, seventh, ninth and tenth even.

While the Dundee-Drako bout drew great heights in poor attendance, an even loftier show was attained in the scheduled second welterweight bout between Meyer Grace of Chicago and Lester Martin of St. Louis.

Grace knocked out Martin with a left after a half-dozen blows. All were delivered into the local boy's collection with pile-driver force. Martin never landed a solid blow. Memories of the past were recalled to veteran fans when Ora Omer opposed Mann Dugan in a preliminary of six rounds. Both veterans who have been in the ring for several years. Dundee crouch was a mark for Omer's left, and Ora had the best of every one of the six rounds.

The bout between Dundee and Drako was advertised to start at 10 o'clock, but it was put on prior to the Omer-Glaser fracas, and was over at 9:45, or 15 minutes before the scheduled starting time.

Jack Hughes, formerly of Kansas City, made his first appearance in a return here in the Grace-Martin and Dundee-Drako fights. In his short time in the ring he proved to be a capable officer.

HE THINKS SING SING IS A BIRD HOUSE

Spring football at St. Louis University is going along at top speed. Unusually cool weather has given the three Billiken coaches, "Hunk" Anderson, "Chili" Walsh and Harvey Brown, an opportunity to put the squad through a hard grind of scrimmage. A regular full-time game is scheduled between the two squads into which Anderson has divided the group, May 5, at the new Public High School Stadium.

Coaches Lead Squads.

Coach Anderson will take charge of the squad called the "Red Panthers" and the "White Tigers," as the other team has been dubbed, will be led by "Chili" Walsh.

End positions of the "Red Panthers" will be taken care of by Vic Daubner and Joe Mulroy, both regulars on last year's varsity. Lyle Drury has also been chosen for the head coach's team. Titus Cornell and Cy Caldwell, regular tackles of last year's team, are also on the Panthers and will have for substitutes Fred Joseph, 190-pound yearling fullback who has been moved to a line position, and Schuter, a new man.

The guarding posts will be taken care of by Curtin, Stutemeyer, Cooper and Tannenbaum. The first three were members of the freshmen and the last is a new man. The Panthers will have the pick of the pivot men of the squad for Coach Anderson has chosen Ed Davidson, regular varsity center, and Bud Willis, rangy freshman center.

Parilla and Grimes, both varsity men, will work as quarterbacks. Joyce, Maxwell, Dennis and Kinnel will get the call for the halfback position, Joyce being the only member of the quartet who served on the varsity. The fullback position will be taken care of by "Snakes" Caselle, flashy freshman back, and Joe Linzick, the "most valuable player" of the varsity of last season.

Linzick's leg seems O. K. Linzick's injured leg seems to have completely regained its normal strength and the big fellow appears to be ready for action.

The "White Tigers" will have Brown and Stringfellow, regular ends of the front, and Jewel Browning, varsity man, as line position. Three varsity men, Miller, Tison and Oeschlager, will work at the tackles. Schwartz, Babka and Wunderlick will take care of the guard positions. Downey and Nangle have been picked by Coach Walsh for his centers. The Tigers will have two flashy quarterbacks in Les Hunt, former Central High star, and Saul Naidorf. Both of these men starred as members of the freshmen. Sylvester Dirnberger, regular varsity back, is scheduled to start at fullback. The choice for the two halfback positions will be between Eaton, Weimel, Talty and Miller.

Britons Skeptical About Olympics

NEW YORK, April 27.—It's a long way off but the British are already skeptical of their ability to be well represented in the 1932 Olympic games at Los Angeles, to judge from the opinion of Douglas G. A. Lowe of Cambridge University, present Olympic 800-meter champion. Lowe's views are expressed in an article written for the Olympic Journal of the International A. A. A.

Because Britain's Olympic teams depend chiefly on athletes outside of college, men who do not have the advantage of long summer vacations, Lowe explains, "it is evident that no large or powerful British team can be expected in California." He suggests that "in the interests of the Olympic movement, which is intended to bring together the maximum number of competitors of all classes, it is perhaps not improper to indicate that the substitution of an east coast venue would be better for 1932."

Lowe, who will meet the American ace, Lloyd Hahn, in defense of the Olympic 800-meter title this summer at Amsterdam, explains that the substitution of an east coast venue would be better for 1932.

The German boxer fell to the floor in the third round of a smash-right to the jaw, and he stayed there for the count of nine in an effort to clear his head. Several hits counts would have been necessary, however, for him to regain his full faculties, and he was a target for Dundee when he came to his feet.

Dundee backed Drako into the ropes and shot vicious rights and lefts to the head and mid-section, when it was apparent that Drako was out on his feet, his hands tossed in a towel, in acknowledgment of defeat.

Both boxers entered the ring at 10 o'clock. Dundee had an advantage in both hands and strength. Drako's main force was in his left, sixth and eighth. Dundee, seventh, ninth and tenth even.

While the Dundee-Drako bout drew great heights in poor attendance, an even loftier show was attained in the scheduled second welterweight bout between Meyer Grace of Chicago and Lester Martin of St. Louis.

Grace knocked out Martin with a left after a half-dozen blows. All were delivered into the local boy's collection with pile-driver force. Martin never landed a solid blow. Memories of the past were recalled to veteran fans when Ora Omer opposed Mann Dugan in a preliminary of six rounds.

Both veterans who have been in the ring for several years. Dundee crouch was a mark for Omer's left, and Ora had the best of every one of the six rounds.

The bout between Dundee and Drako was advertised to start at 10 o'clock, but it was put on prior to the Omer-Glaser fracas, and was over at 9:45, or 15 minutes before the scheduled starting time.

Jack Hughes, formerly of Kansas City, made his first appearance in a return here in the Grace-Martin and Dundee-Drako fights. In his short time in the ring he proved to be a capable officer.

Palmer defeated Joe Thompson, both of St. Louis, three rounds. Weight, 126 pounds.

By Damon Kerby.

Champion Joe Dundee was rated as one of the coldest boxers in the profession in financial affairs several months ago when he refused to fight Ace Hudkins in Los Angeles, after the custom had been set, when the promoter could not produce his full guarantee.

And that thin-lipped, grim-faced young Italian-American proved to be as cold-blooded in the ring as he was in business when he hammered Billy Drako of Germany into submission in three rounds last night at the Coliseum before about 2500 spectators.

Dundee got through the first and second rounds with studied deliberation, but Drako off with his left hand and rocked him repeatedly with ripping right uppercuts until the third, one-sided at best, turned into a massacre.

Dundee backed Drako into the ropes and shot vicious rights and lefts to the head and mid-section, when it was apparent that Drako was out on his feet, his hands tossed in a towel, in acknowledgment of defeat.

Both boxers entered the ring at 10 o'clock. Dundee had an advantage in both hands and strength. Drako's main force was in his left, sixth and eighth. Dundee, seventh, ninth and tenth even.

Mowlee, Winner of Five Races Last Year, One of Rancocas Hopes in Derby

NO. 19—DERBY CANDIDATES.

Mowlee.

Mowlee, along with Nassak, is the main reliance of Harry Sinclair's Rancocas Stable for the 54th renewal of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs. The well-bred colt turned in some fine races last year, but was defeated by several ordinary horses.

Mowlee is a home-bred colt, bred by the Rancocas stable, Lucille, out of the good mare Eplingette, dam of a number of good race horses, among them Superlette, one of the best sprinters in the Rancocas stable. Mowlee, because of the sprinting qualities of the dam, is believed to be only a sprinter, but his races of last year do not indicate that he cannot go a route.

In all of his winning efforts he won by a length and a half or more. His record shows he can carry weight, as in one race over a distance of five and a half furlongs the colt had 120 pounds up and won handily by three lengths.

The Lucille colt was raced on the New York tracks last summer. His career began at Jamaica. In his first start he was defeated by the good colt Dice by 11 lengths. He broke out of the maiden class in his next effort, winning easily by five lengths from a band of cheap racers.

Runs Third to Ariel.

With a change of riders in his next race at Jamaica, Mowlee ran third to his stablemate, Ariel, over a distance of five furlongs. Mowlee was entered in the race as a pace-maker for his stable companion, but he could not keep up with the flying colt. At the end he was 11 lengths behind. The winner covered the distance in :59.

Mowlee scored his second victory of the Jamaica season when he beat Golden Auburn, Eddie Ahern and Candybrook over a five-furlong route in :59 2-5 by five lengths.

He was shipped to Belmont Park to fill his engagement in the LONGER BASKET SEASON FAVORED BY MISSOURI U.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 27.—Rather than shorten the basketball season in the newly organized "Big Six" Conference, Chester L. Brewer, University of Missouri athletic director, and George R. Edwards, Tiger basketball coach, favor a longer playing season for basketball, one that would possibly allow teams of the new conference to play a number of games before the holidays, they both said today when discussing a letter from Dr. Forrest C. Allen, University of Kansas athletic director and basketball coach, in which Allen feared curtailment of the playing season by the new "Big Six" members.

It is already understood among the athletic directors of the new conference that a double round-robin schedule of basketball games will be undertaken next year, providing 10 games for each member as compared with the 15-game schedule undertaken by the Missouri Valley Conference this year. The Western Conference plays 19 authorized games, while the Eastern Intercollegiate Conference sanctions a schedule of 21 games.

Brewer and Edwards both agreed that they would favor a new conference rule allowing member schools to play as many games before the holidays as they like, and then retaining an 18-game schedule, 10 of which games would be with other members of the "Big Six." Such an arrangement would allow institutions to play teams in the "valley" which they have met in all past campaigns.

It is understood here that if the directors of the "Big Six" meeting in Lincoln, Neb., in May do not prohibit games being played outside their own territory, Missouri will seek a series with some Eastern or Western opponent during the next Christmas holidays.

GUILTY OF AUTO THEFT YEAR OF 25-YEAR SENTENCE

Hoop, liable to Penalty as Criminal Criminal, Gives Up Deed and Gets Two Years.

Witnesses for the State yesterday against Hollis Hoop, 4212 Laclede ave., in Circuit Judge Rosskopf's court, yesterday on a charge of stealing an automobile, he changed his plea of "not guilty" to "guilty" and was sentenced to the minimum punishment, two years in the penitentiary.

Hoop had been sent to prison in 1915 for a robbery. He was charged this time as a habitual criminal, which meant that if the case had gone to the jury's hands he might have received the maximum punishment of 25 years' imprisonment. He stole a car belonging to the Gilliam-Epstein Chevrolet Co. last Aug. 22.

FILIBUSTER AGAINST BOULDER DAM LIKELY

Measure in Danger of Being Sidelined Unless Voted on Next Week.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—With his plea for passage of the Boulder Dam bill, Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California set about today to put the burden of further debate entirely upon the opposition.

The struggle between Arizona, which is fighting the bill, and California promises to settle into a contest against time, and proponents are anxious to wear down the opposition. There are indications that Johnson will ask next week for some night sessions, but whether he can muster support for continuous day and night meetings is problematical.

Senator Ashurst (Dem.), Arizona, marshaled his arguments against the proposal under which a dam would be built in the Colorado River at Boulder Canyon, but he made no secret of his intention to use every parliamentary device which might assist him in prolonging the debate.

A new worry confronted Senator Johnson today, action by the Senate Finance Committee on the tax-reduction bill means this measure will be on the Senate doorstep soon.

In a long address outlining the bill, the Californian yesterday declared the legislation involved a test of whether Congress had the "power and courage, in the face of great private interests and enormous questions of wealth, to enact legislation which is required by a part of the people of the nation."

Senator King (Dem.) of Utah, stood by Ashurst and from questioning indicated he was ready to join the Arizona fight against the legislation.

The bill would require ratification of the Colorado River compact by six of the seven states in the basin.

Johnson Explains Bill.

Senator Johnson held the floor virtually the entire day. Once his voice almost gave out but he held to his task. He classified the purposes of the measure as five-fold flood control, particularly for the Imperial Valley of California; reclamation and irrigation; solution of international problems with Mexico regarding distribution of water; production of water for the coastal cities of Southern California; and power development.

He emphasized that the project ultimately would not cost the Government "a cent" through provision for power development.

As for upper states opposition, Johnson insisted adequate provision had been made for protection of their interests and called attention to an amendment put in the bill by the committee restricting the amount of water to be made available for California.

Johnson Wins Point.

An indication of the fight which is in prospect developed at the close of the session. Senator Pittman (Dem.), Nevada, asked unanimous consent that the first amendments to be considered in the Senate be that proposing to give Arizona and Nevada 13 per cent each of the excess revenues collected from power above the requirements of the Government.

PAY INCREASE SOUGHT BY MUNICIPAL OPERA ORCHESTRA

Theater Association, However, Opposing Advance of $10 a Week for Musicians.

A salary increase of $10 a week for the 50 musicians comprising the Municipal Theater orchestra has been requested of the Municipal Theater Association, it was announced today. The Theater Association is opposing the request and asks that the basic pay of $55 a week which was paid last season, be continued.

If the increase is granted, the extra cost to the association, will be $6000 a season. The wages last season totalled approximately $2750 a week. With an increase of $10 a man, the orchestra cost would be about $3250 a week.

David E. Russell, manager of the association, said the men had been told their basic pay of last season is considered sufficient. Russell pointed out there are no musicians at the Municipal Theater and voices the musicians are given work during the summer months when demand for their services elsewhere is comparatively light. Several of the orchestra members, whose work is considered outstanding, are paid a few dollars more a week than the basic scale and Guido Vogner, the director, receives $37.50 a week.

The Municipal Theater season begins June 4 with the light opera, "Princess Flavia." The season will continue for 12 weeks.

Otis Skinner Gets Medal.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Otis Skinner, actor, yesterday was presented with a gold medal for good diction on the stage by the American Academy of Arts and Letters. The academy also voted to give a medal to the radio announcer who has the best diction among 17 more than 2500 who appear on the air daily. The details of the contest will be announced in a few weeks through a country-wide hookup of radio stations.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference to its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the public welfare, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely passing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Sinclair Acquittal.

REFFERING to the Sinclair acquittal.

According to reports, both Fall and Sinclair said it was no surprise to them. Nor was it to me. But I am surprised it went as far as it did—to a trial. Most of such affairs go as far as an investigation and there stop. Senator Norris says we might as well have laws against trying to convict $100,000,000. I say what's the use of having any laws at all for such. The cartoon in Monday evening's Post-Dispatch was good.

I really wonder if there is anything to the saying that honesty is the best policy. Well, let us forgive and forget all about Fall and Sinclair. It is easy to forgive others and to forget, but it is not easy to forget being forgiven.

The Meaning of San Luis Rey.

WONDER if Cantab, who inquires as to the "meaning" of the Bridge of San Luis Rey, has never himself been impressed with the subtle interrelationship of human lives thrown into proximity by reason of social groupings—cities, towns, farming communities. That, insofar as it has a "meaning" in the sense of the theme, would seem to be it. Here were several lives plunged into eternity before Brother Juniper's eyes. The little Jesuit wanted to find some pattern, some design in this sudden act of God. And what did he find? Only that those lives touched each other, subtly or profoundly, here and there, crossed and then separated widely. This and nothing more and Brother Juniper was distressed by his failure, just as your reader apparently is.

I suppose you might trace out a very close relationship in the whole thing—if La Perichole had not suffered smallpox, if Esteban had not loved La Perichole, if the Marquessa's daughter had been less cold, or colder, or colder. But would you be able to say anything more, even if Mr. Wilder had worked this all out more minutely, than that these lives did touch each other, mysteriously, purposelessly and strangely? Another surprise which some readers have taken to be the "meaning" is the discrepancy between what is the actual character of a person and what others think that character to be. But I hold to my own theory. And in this "meaning" enough for a book? For a book written with such skill at any rate. DIOGENES.

Skip-Stop on Olive.

TO THE EDITOR of the Post-Dispatch: I AM dumbfounded and disappointed in your editorial on the street car situation. You probably ride in automobiles; you probably have not your entire lifetime savings tied up in a street car corner; your living is probably not dependent upon street car stops. Your mother, your father, your children, may not have to walk through mud, slush and rain for several blocks after you have leaved a corner with this advantage.

I will make this prediction: Within 60 days from this date there will be a public reaction to the street car situation stronger than you dream, that will rise in all its power against such a foolish theory, against every rule of reason and every rule of common sense. If it is two blocks from the business section then make it 15 blocks in the residential section, upon your theory.

Wild Animal Photography.

ALTHOUGH I have not seen the motion picture "Simba," I must say that the article which appeared in Monday's paper does not seem quite fair to the photographers, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson. Had your critic read some of the articles which have appeared in the journal issued by the American Museum of Natural History (Nov.-Dec., 1927), and other periodicals, he would have a better idea of the dangers connected with this wildlife photography. Your critic mentions that the "rhino gave the Johnsons some excellent full-face and profile shots and ambled away." However, this article apparently does not realize what labor and dangers have been attended the taking of these pictures.

First of all, one must not forget that the chief object of the Johnsons was to obtain motion pictures of wild animals in their natural surroundings and under normal conditions. That is, they were unobserved by humans. This could only be accomplished by building blinds or camouflages, often near water holes, and if for some reason certain water holes were abandoned by the animals, other blinds had to be built. The shifting of the wind, thus carrying the human scent to the animals, was another feature to be reckoned with by the camera man. Thus what may seem like easily obtainable pictures may have meant long hours and perhaps days of patient waiting in almost unbearable heat. An actual hunter perhaps is in less danger than these very photographers whose eventful life, so full of constant danger and hardship, seems to be somewhat belittled by your critic. Why not bring out some of these facts, so as to make the public more fully appreciate the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson?

WHERE THE SUPREME COURT ERRS.

In an article in the Nation, reprinted by the Post-Dispatch, Heywood Brown pays a deserved tribute to Justice Holmes as a great liberal who has stood for human rights and differed from the majority of the Federal Supreme Court. He closes the article with the following sentence:

"Responsive and responsible to the popular will" is the one thing that the Supreme Court of the United States ought not to be. It has nothing to do with the popular will except to restrain it when it takes the form of legislation contrary to the provisions of the Constitution. It is the guardian of the Constitution. Its duty is to see that the rights of citizens guaranteed by the Constitution are not infringed by the other two branches of the Government, the Congress and the Executive, and that the powers of the Federal Government are restricted to those granted by the Constitution.

The principal mistakes of the Supreme Court have been in the direction of bowing to what it conceived to be the popular will, and in enlarging its own powers and at the same time enlarging the powers and functions of the Federal Government beyond constitutional restrictions. It has countenanced Federal usurpations, notably in the case of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act. There are other important instances in which it has permitted the Federal Government to exercise power beyond its constitutional limits. It has been inclined to follow the trend of the ruling element or the apparent majority in disregard of the Constitution.

We should say that the great service of Justice Holmes and his liberal associates has been to stand for constitutional and human rights, against tyrannies and usurpations of government. They have not been responsive to the popular will or to the wishes of the Executive or the Congress, but have been careful of constitutional rights and restrictions.

FLOYD BENNETT.

The democratizing influence of adventure, of the love for flying and the burning desire to seek out strange places on the face of the earth—what a splendid friendship it wrought between Commander Byrd and Floyd Bennett, who died of pneumonia Wednesday at Quebec, with his comrade at his bedside.

Bennett, the machinist, the son of an obscure family, an enlisted man in the navy. Byrd, the scientist, the scion of a famous line, a graduate of Annapolis, an officer and a gentleman. Apparently they had little in common. Yet of Bennett and his part in the North Pole flight Byrd wrote:

It is to Bennett, good old Floyd, that the great share of the credit goes. Without him I could have done nothing.

What a tragedy it is that death should have taken the weatherbeaten flyer when he was on the edge of new adventure as the executive officer of Byrd's South Pole trip. His rise to fame was a splendid example to the American boy who must fight his way to achievement with a minimum of education and financial advantage.

Bennett's achievements shine with the greater brilliance because they were accomplished with so few advantages.

THE BONDS OF THE FOUR HORSEMEN.

The Midwest Oil Co. has decided it has no claim on the $763,000 in Liberty Bonds which its former president, H. M. Blackmer, got out of the notorious Continental deal. The bonds, it appears, had been held in trust pending a decision, either by the courts or by conference, whether Blackmer or the company should have them.

Another of the Continentals' Four Horsemen, James E. O'Neil, returned his share, by way of conscience payment, to the Prairie Oil and Gas Co., of which he was once president. So far as we know the Prairie has kept the restitution in the spirit in which it was made, but possibly the Midwest's action may influence the Prairie to reconsider.

Still another Continental caballero, Robert W. Stewart, has directed that his "participation" be divided equally between the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, of which he is chairman, and the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Co., Indiana Standard declines the gift and proffers it to Sinclair Crude. Should the latter company and the Prairie spurn this "tainted money," Messrs. Blackmer, O'Neil and Stewart need not despair of getting rid of the fatal gold. The last of the Four Horsemen of the Continental, Harry Sinclair, comes galloping to their rescue. "I know a chap," shouts Hard-boiled Harry, "who will take all the bonds the Continental presages have printed. Albert B. Fall, the Bosco of Three Rivers, N. M., eats bonds alive."

April 27 is toasted, but this April ought to be roasted.

WHY GOV. SMALL FIRED HIM.

DAVID H. JACKSON has resigned as chairman of the Illinois Commerce Commission at the request of Gov. Small. The Governor says there was dissension in the office. Mr. Jackson denies that and gives a different explanation. He says he could not be handled in the Insull elevated rate case, that the Governor knew that Jackson could not be lined up for an increase in rates but would probably recommend a reduction.

We know nothing about Mr. Jackson and cannot vouch for his statement. But we do know that the sort of politics he has charged Small with playing in this instance is in keeping with Small's reputation. We know, as everyone knows, that while Frank L. Smith was chairman of the Illinois Commerce Commission and candidate for the United States Senate, Insull contributed $25,000 to Smith's campaign fund and that Smith's shocking defiance of public decency in accepting such money under such circumstances was approved by Small.

That there is a community of interest between Insull and the Small-Thompson-Smith machine which was ditched in the recent primary, has been charged by responsible Illinois papers. That Insull is in politics for business reasons and that his large and numerous campaign contributions are investments on which he expects to realize admits of no sensible doubt.

On that premise, therefore, the action of Small in ousting Jackson for the reason Jackson states, is logical and credible.

CITY FINANCES.

A year ago the City of St. Louis had a deficit of $1,092,655. Today it has a surplus of $1,800,000, of which $500,000 is cash and $1,300,000 is in preferred stock of the local street railway company at the market value of $50 per share. This has enabled the Board of Estimate to be much more generous to several needy municipal causes, as well as to finance important improvements.

How does it happen that the city is so much better off, that it can increase its annual budget $2,292,392, and that where there was only $181,000 for making pavements last year there is to be $308,908 for the same purpose this year?

The answer is that the improvement in the finances of the city is in part fortuitous. That is, it received last year $1,225,000 in current and back taxes upon the capital stock of local banks. The banks resisted this tax for three years, and the $1,225,000 accumulated in that period. Having lost in the courts and paid up, they will hereafter pay approximately one-third of that, or some $408,333 annually.

It was this accumulation that brought the city's cash from a deficit of over $1,000,000 last year to a surplus of about $500,000 this year. The additional surplus in preferred stock of the street railways could hardly be converted into cash by throwing on the market the 16,212 shares which the city recently took in settlement of delinquent mill taxes for the last ten years. What the city is doing is to take the dividends, which in the last quarter were $28,372. The tax itself, which has been paid direct since the settlement in 1919, amounts to approximately $240,000 a year. So that will leave another deficit of approximately $550,000 next year at the present scale of maintenance. The financial problem of the municipality is therefore only improved; it is not solved. It must be borne in mind that city government is constantly becoming more complex and expensive.

Meanwhile, it is interesting to know that of the $37,000,000 voted for municipal improvements five years ago there has been appropriated $46,864,654.79, of which approximately $40,000,000 has been spent. The new waterworks, which was to cost $12,000,000, has absorbed $11,000,000 to date. The first of the bonds, that is the 5-year bonds, mature this year.

THAT MASSACHUSETTS PRIMARY.

In their primary on Wednesday Massachusetts Republicans gave Secretary Hoover a ten-to-one lead over other contestants, and 300 Democrats voted for Gov. Smith where one voted for Senator Reed or Senator Walsh.

Does this vote, decisive as it is, register the sentiment of Massachusetts? We do not know. An Associated Press dispatch from Boston says that only 12 per cent of the Republican vote in 1924 was cast for Mr. Hoover, while Mr. Smith polled only the same per cent of the Democratic vote for the same year. A 12 per cent judgment is doubtless symptomatic but it can hardly be called conclusive.

But it is conclusive in one respect, at least—the majority's refusal to participate in a primary election. Primary nominations are invariably minority nominations. Such an exception as Illinois recently furnished only proves the rule. And as long as primary nominations are nominations by default, so to speak, the primary system is a failure.

C. LEE COOK.

C. Lee Cook, who has just died in Louisville, was known as the genius who never walked. In childhood he was cruelly and fantastically crippled by disease, and he spent most of his life in a wheel chair. But there was a bright flame in this man that refused to be snuffed out by the tragedy of his twisted body. Cook educated himself to the point where he spoke with authority on aspects of law, language, history and art. He taught himself to paint, and his work was hung here and there in Europe. He was a successful inventor and business man. At a late of his own design, in his younger days, he drove his grotesque body 17 hours a day to turn out a product that made it possible for him to pursue his many-sided career.

It is fitting that history reserves a special place for men and women who have risen superior to deformity and disease. Demosthenes, by painful effort, overcame a defect in speech to become one of the great orators of the ages. Beethoven could not hear his own immortal music. Stevenson, racked with tuberculosis, became one of the foremost English stylists. Byron, engaged by his deformed foot, swam the Hellespont. We forgive Alexander Pope his malice when we remember his paralysis. Dr. Johnson was deaf, Milton was blind, Julius Caesar, it is believed, was epileptic. The lovely Helen Keller was born deaf, dumb and blind.

Truly, the tribe to which C. Lee Cook belonged is a gallant and inspiring company.

And Collector Koeln is also a cheerful giver, but is he not carrying generosity out of bounds when he proposes to give us four more years of Sidener?

THAT FLOCK OF GESE.

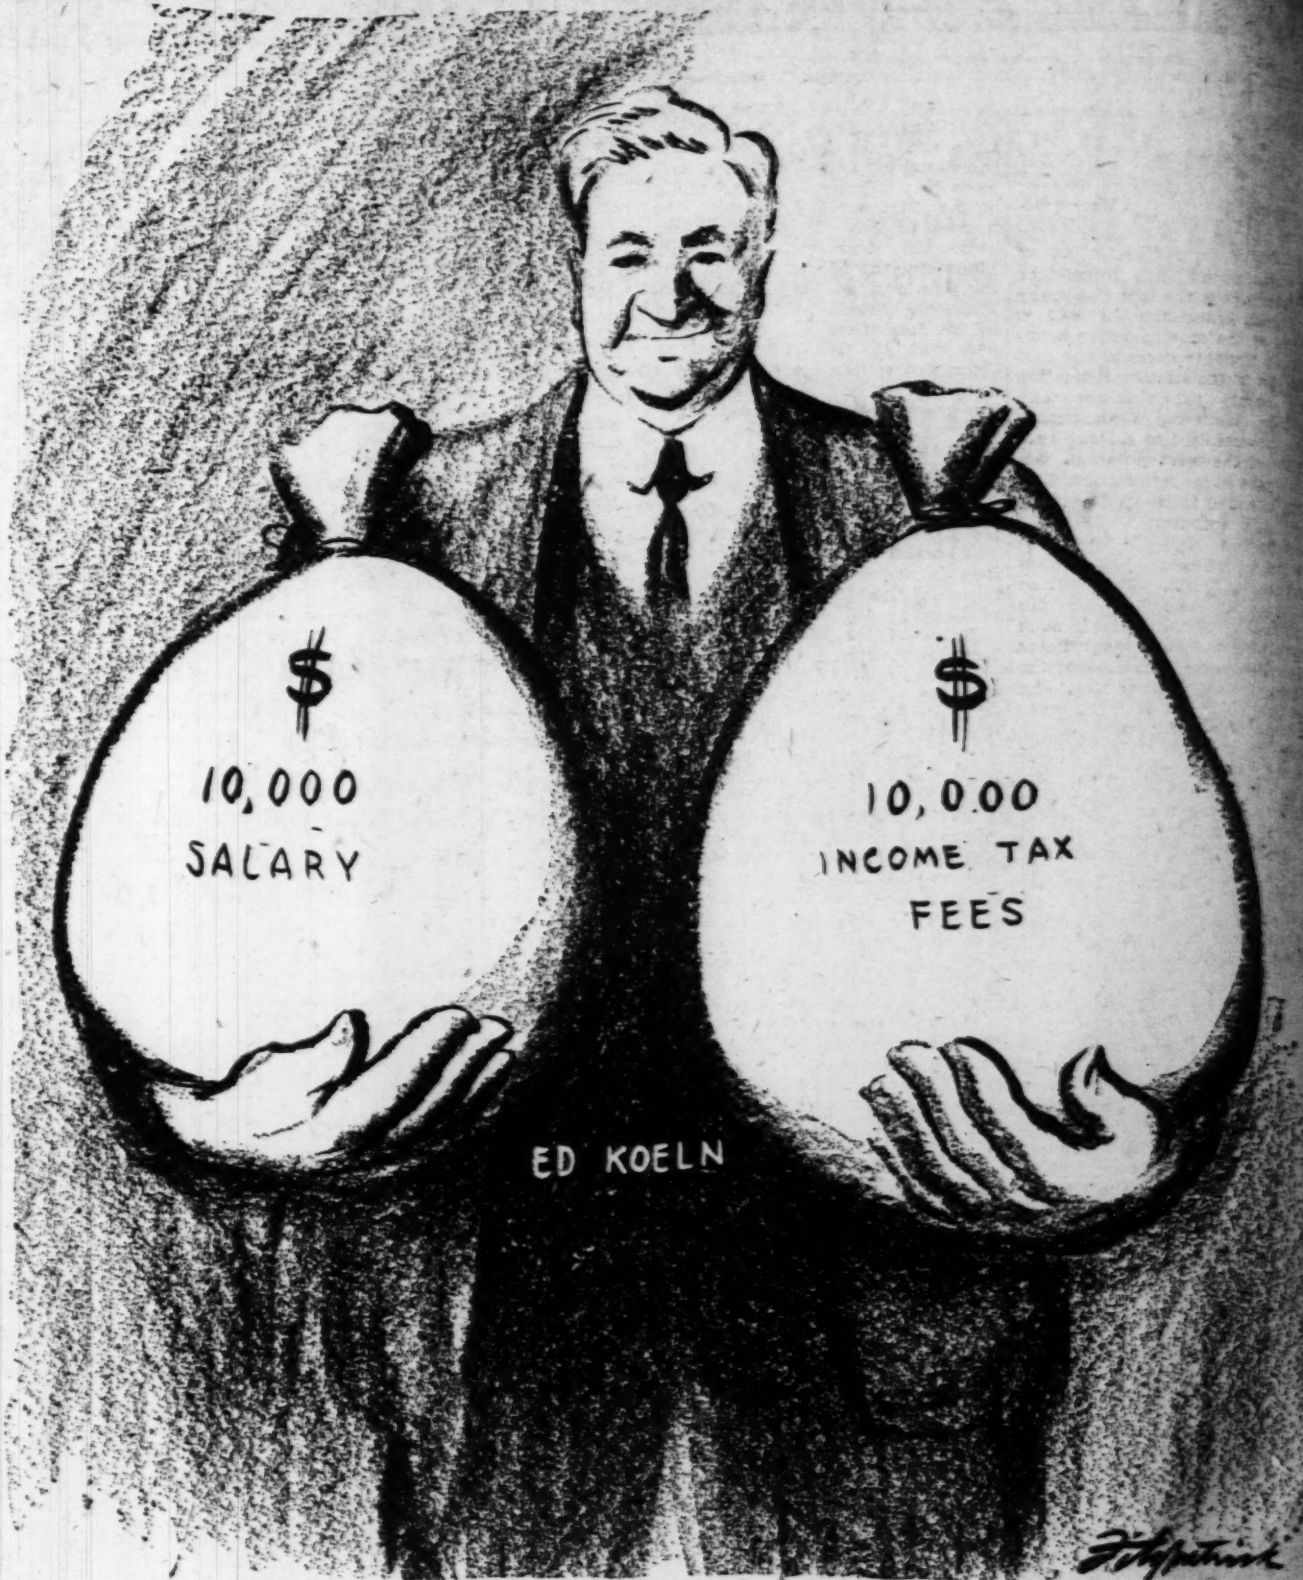

Not since Lindbergh came home from Paris has anything in the sky occasioned such a stir in St. Louis as the great flock of something that flew over the city last Tuesday morning.

That it was "a flock of geese almost a mile long" is what the people of any city would say of such a spectacle, inasmuch as pretty much all birds of that sort are to the layman geese. The bird man would say they were cormorants, that geese do not migrate in such big flocks, nor do they go north so late in the season.

The cormorant is a late migrant. Its numbers are immense. It is not a game bird, and so escapes the declamation that wild geese have suffered. Cormorants are very large, and they are black. Their formation in the sky is loose. It never achieves the exactness of the wedge usually formed by geese and sometimes by ducks. In China the cormorant, with a ring on its neck so it cannot swallow the fish, does the fishing for the junkman while the latter plays mah jong. It is a common bird in the Mississippi Valley, and ordinarily travels in much larger flocks than either geese or brant are seen in. The description of "a flock of geese almost a mile long" going over St. Louis about April 24 would exactly fit cormorants.

So, without wishing to be pedantic, we have set that matter right.

C. C. Pyle's bunion derby staggers through St. Louis today on its way East. Compared with it, the storied gallop of Pheidippides becomes a mere sprint.

America Goes Victorian

The British Find It Difficult to Square American Profession With American Performance; They Cannot Reconcile Our Demands for Naval Disarmament With Our Big Navy Program; or Mr. Coolidge's Noble Sentiments at Havana With Our Nicaraguan Policy.

From The London Saturday Review
(Baldwin Conservative Weekly).
Reprinted from the Living Age.

THE Americans seem to be better than we are at preaching naval disarmament, but we certainly excel them in the practice. It will be remembered that two out of the three cruisers which we were to lay down in the current financial year were dropped last November. The naval estimates for the coming year have not been published, but by this time they are probably as good as settled, and a forecast that bears signs of inspiration says that it is proposed to drop a third cruiser. We are supposed to be working to a five-year program propounded in 1925, under which we were to build some 16 cruisers. By the end of the next financial year—April, 1929—we shall, if the forecast be correct, not have laid down more than 10, so that we shall have reduced our armaments in new cruisers by at least 20 per cent, and the saving in cost will be at the very least $5,000,000.

Contrast it with that of the Americans, who like to regard themselves as the heroes of that conference and the protagonists of disarmament. The "big navy" party has just won a remarkable victory, and a five-year program of new construction is about to be launched which it is expected will sanction five new cruisers in each year, besides other craft. That is to say, the disarmament Americans are about to build twice as many cruisers—and larger ones—as this imperialistically minded old country. We do not complain. It may be—as has happened before—that these big American programs will never really take the water. Wherever they do or not, it would be foolish of us to start competitive building, and we are at all times prepared to discuss fresh projects of disarmament or such understandings on naval policy as would exclude any notion of rivalry between the two countries. But if America is to have naval superiority, need she also hurt the moral superiority of her preaching so contemptuously against our better practice?

THERE is a similar contrast between preaching and practice even in the blessed lands where, as President Coolidge has just told the world, the spirit of Columbus is supreme. This spirit, we gather from the English of Victoria, is negative, not tolerant. The radicals who have lost all their teeth by this time in Europe are still in America the same terrible fellows that they were when the old Manchester Guardian regarded Cobden as an extreme and dangerous man. The American ideas of international freedom are still corrupted by the same sense of moral superiority as led the English Victorians to wage the opium wars on China. The modern American is like the English Victorian, happy in a completely rounded and conclusive philosophy of the world. The Victorian Englishman was more certain about everything than the modern Georgian is about anything, and his American analogue is in the same happy state in relation to Europe and other backward institutions like Nicaragua. We do not grudge him the happiness of a mind made up and a pocket overflowing with gold. But we do dislike his airs of moral superiority.

population of Nicaragua, and it is an awkward fact for the champions of the self-determination which, according to President Coolidge, filled the sails of Columbus as he approached America.

THE Liberals won the election of 1924 in Nicaragua, and elected the Diaz party, which previous American governments had supported, to the no small advantage. It is said, of American financiers. The American marines are now supporting Diaz in his usurpation of power, and, while we gather from Mr. Henry Stimson that the "honor and prestige of the United States are involved in the recognition of Diaz," he does not say how much American money is involved. The American idea of efficiency, and even money, to do with the matter if, as is said and generally believed in South America, they are in conflict with the Nicaraguan right of self-government? Why, if they had prevailed in Washington, the United States might still be a bright constellation of jewels in the British Crown!

WE would admit that even the spirit of high finance and of economic progress may have its rights like the spirit of Columbus himself. We have suffered too much from these airy political generalizations coming from America to wait to turn them against her. But again we would plead, since that be so, might we not be given a rest from these notions, which start from the assumption that there is something in the air of America that inoculates her against the maladies of Europe? There is a rodentomade of effects monarchies, and it helped to make the last European war. But even Presidents, as well as Kaisers, can be guilty of rodentomade, and if the truth be told, the stuff that overzealous secretaries make Presidents talk affects South America much as the Kaiser's hocha used to affect Europe.

THE truth will out. It is that the United States Government and people, are really old-fashioned mid-Victorians strayed into the twentieth century. The conception of domestic freedom in America of today, as in the England of Victoria, is negative, not tolerant. The radicals who have lost all their teeth by this time in Europe are still in America the same terrible fellows that they were when the old Manchester Guardian regarded Cobden as an extreme and dangerous man. The American ideas of international freedom are still corrupted by the same sense of moral superiority as led the English Victorians to wage the opium wars on China. The modern American is like the English Victorian, happy in a completely rounded and conclusive philosophy of the world. The Victorian Englishman was more certain about everything than the modern Georgian is about anything, and his American analogue is in the same happy state in relation to Europe and other backward institutions like Nicaragua. We do not grudge him the happiness of a mind made up and a pocket overflowing with gold. But we do dislike his airs of moral superiority.

Handsome Is as Handsome Does.

It has long been known that some men patronize beauty parlors. What of it? The information causes ribald amusement in some quarters, but cannot the movement for a more beautiful world begin at home? If nature has been unkind to a man, may he resign himself to the harsh decrees of fate? If one's profile is all that Adam might ask, is there any harm in seeking to add a laser to the nose? Of course not.

It matters not how big the ears. Nor if the face might traffic turn. Mine still may be the face that charms. And if it does, that's my concern.

But in Chicago, where men are men, barbers are talking of installing booths at which a man can get a facial massage in private. In private, forsooth! Was it for the sake of the history books? In the handsomeness the attribute of the man. Are we so craven-hearted that we need conceal from a jeering world our efforts at Gilbertian profiles? No! If a man is so timid that he can get a facial only behind closed doors, then he does not deserve a facial.

THE NORMS ARE SPINNING. By Andreas Haukland. (Macy-Mas.)

ANDREAS HAUKLAND, of whose novels "The Norms Are Spinning" is the first to appear in English translation, is said to be one of the most popular Scandinavian fiction writers of the day. The fact is another indication that a literary provincialism that, far from justifying sophisticated criticism, has resulted in a large proportion of the most powerful creative works in modern fiction. This is not intended to mean that "The Norms Are Spinning" is a great creative work. It is not that; but it seems to indicate a popular interest in the fundamental verities of human life, and it is only for a reading public in which such taste exists that such magnificent creative works as "The Tree of the Folk," "The Charles Men," and "The Growth of the Soil," to mention only three of many, can be offered successfully. It may be objected that the latter work had a great run in America; but did not most of our readers have the same reason that explains our consumer interest in "Trader Horn"? Were we not told that it was quite the thing to do?

The sophisticated mood of what Spengler calls the "megapolitan" cannot be creative in the large, organic sense. The "megapolitan" consciousness is characteristically obsessed with surfaces and is likely to be brilliantly cynical, gracefully flippant, at best. It is incapable of the deep, brooding seriousness that creates large, significant patterns out of the fundamental and, therefore, unchanging stuff of life. Is it too much to say that in every great creative work the genuine primitive sense is strong? Is this not equivalent to saying that such works go deeper than the whims of fashion? And if once a reader has been impressed by the essential greatness of Homer and Aeschylus, as we say, will he not be rather well prepared to detect the supreme human moods wherever and whenever they may be? The "megapolitan" "civilization" lacks in deep roots in the only soil that can nourish vital fruits; for, after all, there are only a very few great truths about our experiences on this planet—however we may consider them—and all the rest is only transient fact.

Certainly "The Norms Are Spinning" is primitive enough! It is a tale of the early Vikings—a romance worked out in terms of brutal realism. Whatever fault an expert on the period in question might find with occasional details, it seems beyond doubt that the author has gone deeply into those details, and the result is a book of the book is convincing and the characters have the breath of life in them.

The story is that of a fatal feud between two powerful landholders.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—The Rev. Dr. Lewis S. Mudge, pastor of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. HOPES FOR SCIENTIFIC MOLDING OF MANKIND

Prof. H. J. Muller Says Science May Find Way to Control Heredity.

Man cannot make life, but probably he can remold it, Prof. H. J. Muller of the University of Texas, winner of the 1927 prize of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, told Washington University students yesterday at Graham Memorial Chapel.

Not the poet, building against life a barricade of black marks on white paper, but the scientist grubbing pockmarked among milk bottles of crawling insects, cages of squealing rats, was likely at last to conquer life and "remold it nearer to the heart's desire."

Man has gained the whole world of the inanimate, remarked Prof. Muller. But, though he did not essentially, did it profit him? The biologist was concerned with a question which has engrossed philosophy from Zoroaster to Bernard Shaw, how can we recast life itself in a nobler mold, how recast a finer race of human beings?

Speeding Nature's Work. Prof. Muller by the use of X-rays has speeded up by 15,000 percent the process whereby nature makes new forms of life. He began with fruit flies has been taken up by Prof. Frank Blair Hanson of Washington University, who plans to extend it to higher forms of life, particularly white rats.

The method, as previously told in the Post-Dispatch, is to subject parents to X-rays. Offspring show phenomenal changes in 400 hereditary characteristics, including shape, color, and even the average duration of life. Most of the "mutations" so produced, as in nature, are inferior to the parents, but the superior ones may be fostered by breeding. It is believed that the cause is that X-rays strike and destroy some of the submicroscopic "genes" in the germ cell. Each gene determines a hereditary characteristic.

In his address, Prof. Muller pointed out that there was no apparent prospect of using X-rays to make a better race of men and women. But, he explained, the work on lower animals was adding tremendously to science's comprehension of the forces that control heredity, and that knowledge might eventually help mankind to remold itself.

Immediate practical results were unessential, he remarked, for it was science, discovering the fundamental truths, which would have the most far-reaching effects in "practical" affairs.

Turning Tables on Nature.

"The body, it has been said, is a complicated structure for protecting the genes, and giving them the chance to reproduce," said Dr. Muller. "It is humiliating to think that the individual—you or I—is only the gene's way of making more genes. Surely we must strive ceaselessly to turn the tables, so that we may finally say that the gene is only the individual's way of making more and better individuals."

"What other attacks against the genes will yield we do not know. But we know that we cannot remain forever a pawn in the hands of the unknown. The civilian population must be trained to support the army of scientific progress and to support it intelligently. In return the civilian population must be taught how to enjoy the fruits of victory."

"We cannot yet control the biological material within ourselves, which we pass from one generation to another, and which was passed down to us and controls our traits. We have made some headway on the biological front of man's battle against the unknown. We cannot make life—far from it. We can, probably, remake it."

Warning to Eugenicists. He warned against the use of X-rays to cause sterility in human beings as advocated in some eugenic movements, citing: "Sterility is often temporary, and the offspring of those who have been temporarily rendered sterile by X-rays may be full of hidden mutations."

French Medal for Illinoisan. CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—Dr. E. W. Burgess, professor of economics at the University of Illinois, has been awarded the 1927 medal of the Institute of Comparative Law, Paris, France, for distinguished work last year. The noted award, for which 40 eminent economists were candidates, has never before been awarded an American.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 27.

THOUGHTS while strolling: Those basement places with dirty window curtains making the sardonic claim: "Home Cooking." Franklin Booth, the artist. A window of gold-rimmed cognac glasses—marked down. Girls who lounge at the wheels of automobiles. Royal Brown and his wife.

Two writers from Jersey—Connorsy Dawson and Albert Payson Terhune. A woman in a window demonstrating a patented egg-beater. The fellow with the apostolic beard, who walks about with a parrot on his shoulder. Channing Pollock.

That glow of pride we feel when a traffic officer salutes. King watches no bigger than a dime. A teamster yells: "Giddyup Ambrosia!" The plainclothes guardians about millionaires' homes. "Ginger snaps like mother used to bake."

But whose mother? A. E. Matthews, the English actor—and a good one. The Demosthenes Shine Parlor. Parasites who hang about a railroad station. When one more motorcycle grazes me, I begin shooting from both hips. Few pedestrians can resist peering down an open manhole. A triangle-shaped perfume parlor, all mirrors, and looks a block deep.

Nothing looks so out of place as a bird dog in the city. Joseph Urban's triple china. Those block-long theatrical scenery trucks. The queer wood smoke smell floating from Jersey hills. Old men with umbrellas who walk with one arm behind their back.

Little Rollos, rolling mahogany polished hoops. The Turkish coffee stand that never seems to have customers. Pops who admire themselves in window mirrors. More over. Professional twins "on the make." More bicycles than ever this summer.

A portable Punch and Judy show with a faded old maestro. A man walks under a ladder, thinks it over, goes back and does it again. Atta here! Desolation comes to the fur shops. Glass pillars in front of a sea food cafe, with running water and live fish. Top E. House, a paragraph from Tokyo.

which will show up in later generations."

New members of the honorary scholarship fraternities marched to the chapel, and were initiated last night at Forest Park Hotel.

Approximately 150 persons attended the dinner served at Grace Methodist Church, Skinner road and Waterman avenue, Dr. George A. Throop, acting chancellor, presided.

City to Put Park Near Free Bridge Approach

$6000 Appropriated for Construction of Strip at Seventh and Chouteau.

To provide an attractive scene for motor tourists entering the city over the Municipal Bridge, the rectangular strip of land used as a traffic cutoff at the head of the bridge, at Seventh street and Chouteau avenue, is to be converted into a little park.

An appropriation of $6000 for this purpose, recommended by Park Commissioner Pape was approved by the Citizens' Bond Issue Supervisory Committee yesterday.

McKinley Plaza is being arranged to greet tourists arriving on McKinley Bridge. There is a broad square at the head of Eads Bridge. The highway crossing being erected over the river at the north end of the city will enter Chain of Rocks Park.

Another appropriation approved by the committee was $40,000 for the landscaping of Government Hill, Forest Park, Pooks, a cascade, trees and shrubbery are to be provided. Included in this project is the planting of 1000 Japanese cherry trees to be given to the city by Samuel Moffitt, New York capitalist and former St. Louisan.

Three appropriations for sidewalks in parks likewise were passed, as follows: Forest Park, $2000 for extension of the Municipal Theater walk from the Field House to Jefferson Memorial, and $2600 for a walk on the west side of Kingshighway drive between Laclede avenue and the Wabash viaduct; Carondelet Park, $2500 for various walks.

Approval was given also to expenditure of $39,540 to remove the central parkway in Arsenal street, between Fifty-ninth street and Jamieson avenue, substituting pavement. This will serve as a material widening of this thoroughfare, which will be in greater traffic demand upon completion of a viaduct over the Frisco Railway.

These six appropriations aggregate $32,540.

NEW YORK, April 27.

EARLY summer brings winter shut-ins to public parks. There is a spot on the east side of Central Park that is the rendezvous for many. They are wheeled there in invalid chairs and resume friendships cut off with the first touches of winter.

A YOUNG bachelor decided to spark a little swank in his apartment by hiring a single Chinese servant. He invited a group of cronies to the first dinner. In the midst of the meal, there was a disturbance in the kitchen. The cook seemed to be issuing orders in pidgin English to several persons. The bachelor had the idea the kitchen had suddenly filled with Chinese, so he went to investigate and found only the lone servant. Inquiring the reason for the disturbance, he got this explanation: "Make noise like much people. Me no want master's friends think he no have plenty servants."

Another man recently asked where he might get a butler for the evening. He was entertaining a group of ladies. The doorman modestly admitted he had "battled" on occasions, and was hired. He appeared in regulation uniform, wearing court white gloves and a larded mustache. In opening the first bottle of wine, the cork popped into his eye, and in agony he rubbed it with one hand while the other held the bottle aloft, the contents spraying over the guests. The host felt it his duty to replace three gowns ruined by the deluge.

There is an incorporated establishment in the West Indies offering typical well-trained English butlers with owl eyes, side whiskers and everything, and equally well-trained French maids, for the evening. They furnish their uniforms and the charge for the evening for the butler is $10 and the maid $7.

I HOPE I never have to hire a butler. They give me the creeps. I have seen the butler move through too many plays with bland innocence, only to learn at the final curtain that it was none other than he who stabbed his master.

ILLINOIS PHILANTHROPIST DIES

John Kissack, 84, Gave $250,000 to Religious Projects.

FARMER CITY, Ill., April 27.—John Kissack, 84 years old, who gave more than $250,000 to religious institutions and projects in Illinois and foreign countries, was buried here yesterday.

Mr. Kissack was a native of England, coming to America when he was 22 years old. He bought 80 acres of land near Farmer City, and built up a fortune from which he contributed to religious enterprises in Indian, China, Chile and Illinois.

His contributions in this state included the Wesley Foundation of the Methodist Church at Urbana and the Illinois Wesleyan University at Bloomington.

An agreement which, it is expected, will prevent pressmen's strikes or lockouts, was adopted by the association.

The agreement provides for arbitration for contract renewals as well as for other points which may arise between newspapers and the union.

AMERICAN FOOD JOURNAL

AWARDS MERIT CERTIFICATE

The Honor is Given to the California Fruit Growers' Exchange.

As a reward for the most conspicuous work in research fields during 1928, the Certificate of Merit has just been conferred upon the California Fruit Growers' Exchange. The honor comes from the findings of a board of judges appointed by the Home Economist and The American Food Journal. The American Food Journal Certificate of Merit is based on an exhaustive examination of the methods of food manufacturers who in the opinion of the nine disinterested judges made the greatest contribution to the food field as a whole during 1928. Selection for the award was made on the following points:

First—The uncovering of facts regarding the chemical composition of products. Helping the commercial division of the food field to appreciate and profit by the work of scientists in the laboratory.

Second—Accomplishments which tend to improve national dietary habits.

Third—A section which dealt with constructive advertising and based the report on increased production, lowered cost and the development of new markets as well as the strengthening of old ones.

RECIPES FOR DISHES

IN WEEK'S MENU

Most Housekeepers Find it interesting to Try Out New Recipes.

Lamb is probably less expensive this season of the year than any of the other meats, so that it is chosen for the roast on Sunday.

If you are planning meals for a large family, it is better and economical to buy the whole quarter rather than the leg and ribs. There should be enough lamb over to serve cold for Monday and if a currant mint sauce is made with this it will have quite a different flavor. The sauce is best made by adding two tablespoons of currant fresh mint (your butcher or grocer should be able to supply you with this) to a glass of currant jelly and beat the mixture with a fork until it is slightly "lumpy." A dash of grated orange rind may be added if desired and does not alter the flavor a bit. It is usually better when serving cold meat at the time of year to precede it with a hot soup.

Peppermint Ice Cream.
Put one-half pound of molasses, peppermint candy through a meat-chopper or crush it with rolling pin. Scald one quart of milk. Add the candy and stir until dissolved. It is usually not necessary to add extra sugar, but if the mixture does not seem sweet enough, add very gradually what ever sugar is desired. Remember that the mixture will be a little less sweet when it is frozen. Beat the eggs and pour the hot milk mixture gradually over them. Cook for five minutes, then remove from the fire and cool. Stir in a large can of undiluted evaporated milk and freeze the mixture in the usual way. Let stand an hour or so before serving. The use of molasses and peppermint candy gives a caramel peppermint flavor that is especially good in the frozen mixture.

Flaky Mashed Potatoes.
Adding hot milk instead of cold water makes potatoes flakier. Mash well, add salt, butter and hot milk last. Beat five minutes with a spoon.

Radish Salad.
Arrange sliced tomatoes on a bed of radishes on a bed of grated beets. Serve on lettuce with French dressing.

Green Peas and Cheese.
Season six cups of cooked peas with salt and pepper, mash through a sieve, add a quart of milk and a tablespoon each of butter and flour mixed. Stir well, beat, and, lastly, fold in white whipped cream. Serve in a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with cheese and bake an hour.

Wash Milk Bottles.
Milk bottles need careful cleaning before they go into the refrigerator. They should be dipped in cold water and dried with a clean cloth, with special attention to the paper cap.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

Most Housekeepers Find It Interesting to Try Out New Recipes.

Lamb is probably less expensive this season of the year than some of the other meats, so that I have chosen it for the roast on Sunday. If you are planning meals for a large family, it is better and more economical to buy the whole hind quarter rather than the leg alone. There should be enough lamb with ever to serve cold for Monday night, and if a currant mint sauce is used with this it will have quite a new flavor. The sauce is best made by adding two tablespoons of chopped fresh mint (your butcher or green grocer should be able to supply you with this) into a glass of currant jelly and beat the mixture with a fork until it is slightly "runny." A dash of grated orange rind may be added if desired and does pep up the flavor a bit. It is usually better when serving cold meat at this time of year to precede it with a hot soup.

Peppermint Ice Cream.
Put one-half pound of molasses, peppermint candy through the meat-chopper or crush it with a rolling pin. Scald one quart of milk. Add the candy and stir until dissolved. It is usually not necessary to add extra sugar, but if the mixture does not seem sweet enough, add very gradually what ever sugar is desired. Remember that the mixture will be a little less sweet when it is frozen. Beat two eggs and pour the hot milk mixture gradually over them. Cook for a minute, then remove from the fire and cool. Stir in a large can of undiluted evaporated milk and freeze the mixture in the usual way. Let stand an hour or so before serving. The use of molasses peppermint candy gives a caramel peppermint flavor that is especially good in the frozen mixture.

Casserole of Liver.
Either lamb, calf or beef liver can be used for this recipe. Use a pound and a half of sliced liver. Four boiling water over it and drain thoroughly. Cut in strips about one inch wide. Roll in flour season with salt and pepper and brown quickly in hot bacon fat or drippings. Place in a casserole dish with two or three slices of onion, one sliced carrot, a teaspoonful of vinegar, one-half a green pepper, shredded, and enough boiling water to barely cover the meat. Cover the dish and bake in a moderate oven or simmer on top of the stove for an hour and a half. Put in a tablespoon of tomato catsup and thicken the gravy slightly with flour or corn-starch mixed with cold water. Serve hot with steamed or boiled brown rice.

Flaky Mashed Potatoes.
Adding hot milk instead of cold to mashed potatoes makes them lighter. Mash well, add salt, butter and hot milk last. Beat for a minute with a spoon.

Tatish Salad.
Arrange sliced tomatoes and radishes on a bed of grated cabbage. Serve on lettuce with French dressing.

Green Peas and Cheese.
Season six cups of cooked peas with salt and pepper, mash them through a sieve, add a quart of milk and a tablespoon each of butter and flour mixed. Stir until smooth, add the yolk of three eggs well beaten, and, lastly, fold in the whites whipped very stiff. Put into a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with cheese and bake almost an hour.

Wash Milk Bottles.
Milk bottles need careful cleaning before they go into the refrigerator. They should be dipped in cold water and dried with a clean cloth, with special attention to the paper cap.

ABOUT MAYONNAISE DRESSING

Mayonnaise has a high fuel value on account of the amount of oil used in its manufacture. The addition of eggs and sugar add to its health value and make it a valuable food for all except young children. Its use greatly increases the nutritive value of salads and also increases their fuel value, especially in the case of fruit- and vegetable salads, as this type of food has a very low caloric value. Food products containing large amounts of fat are slow of digestion, and for this reason should not be given to young children.

THE COOK'S PROBLEM IS BUYING FOR TWO

Most Trouble Caused by Meats but There Are Many Cuts for Two.

The problem of planning meals for two people in such a way as to avoid monotony is indeed a very real one.

First of all, if you are not an experienced housekeeper, let me tell you that there are cook books with recipes written just for two. The average recipe is planned for six servings, though most of them can be readily divided in half and used for two with perhaps just a little left over for lunch the next day.

The meat questions usually causes trouble—steaks, chops and chopped meats are apt to become tiresome and many young housekeepers feel that a roast is beyond them unless company is expected to help eat it.

A leg of lamb, of course, or a large roast of beef is undoubtedly too large for two people, but there are other pieces of meat that can be most advantageously used. A piece of the loin or rack of lamb, for instance, makes a delicious roast and can be bought in any size desired. A two-pound piece is recommended. It should be well trussed to facilitate carving and then roasted in a hot oven, allowing 50 minutes for the two pounds. The loin or the rack is the part of the animal from which the loin chops are cut, so that it is really roast chops that you are serving. However, as the meat is all in one piece it keeps moist and has an excellent flavor. Any left over is good to slice cold for another meal or to reheat with currant or mint sauce, or mushroom gravy.

The first cut of beef, that is, the prime rib cut, makes a roast just big enough for two people. It should be boned and rolled and will weigh anywhere from two to three and one-half pounds, before boning. The bone makes excellent soup stock. Often a small piece of the "eye" of round can be bought. This is a tender cut of solid meat, and may be either roasted or braised. Small chickens are, of course, always available.

In the vegetable line, small sized cans of almost all varieties can be bought, and that hold just enough for two servings. It is often much more economical to buy this size rather than the larger quantity, unless you have some method of making use of the extra. The following day, so far as fresh vegetables are concerned, it is often difficult to know just how much to buy. One pound of string beans will give enough for two large servings and some left over for a salad the next day. A pound of green peas in the shells usually makes two good servings. One pound of spinach, if it is young, makes two small servings, although a pound and a half will allow for a cream of spinach soup at another meal. There are three to four medium-sized tomatoes to a pound. A medium-sized bunch of carrots makes two servings when diced and boiled.

HOW WE KEPT WATER COOL ON THE HARVEST FIELD

Science Adopts the Same Idea in the New Automatic Water Coolers.

Who does not remember the harvest time trick of pouring water on a cast-off coat and then wrapping the garment about the jug, before tucking it back under the armpit? Certainly no woman shock? On a farm, the water might taste flat before night, but it remained cool as long as it lasted—providing the coat was kept moistened.

Science and industry have made a lot of progress in the field of cooling and refrigeration, but so far they haven't been able to discover any water-cooling principle equaling that exemplified above. Evaporation, or the change of a liquid to a vapor, causes the absorption of heat. The vapor may have exactly the same temperature as the liquid before evaporation, but it has nevertheless removed a considerable amount of heat. It is in his makeshift application of this principle.

New automatic water coolers, now found in many private offices and public places and automatic refrigerators in operation all over the world are simply engineering applications of the same idea. A liquid which vaporizes at a low temperature constitutes the heat removing agent in such equipment. The remainder of the mechanism merely provides a means to get rid of the heat thus removed and to force the vapor back to a liquid so that the operation may be repeated indefinitely.

For Elaborate Meals.
Soup, for instance, can always be added to a dinner menu, or a salad of some sort or an extra vegetable planned to make the meal more elaborate. For instance, Sunday's dinner might add a fruit cocktail or a hot soup for the first course.

Try Brown Rice.
Brown rice is whole rice with its bran coat and seed. When the bran and the seed are removed the brown rice becomes white rice. Brown rice takes longer to cook than the white rice.

VEGETABLES WITH BACON

Housewives like to get new recipes for vegetable cookery. Few meat products are more versatile than bacon. Several slices of crisp sweet bacon adds to the food value of a vegetable dish as well as improving the flavor of very many vegetables. Bacon and spinach is savory and this is the way to cook it.

Line a mold with thin slices of uncooked bacon. Arrange upon the bacon, thin slices of boiled carrots and turnips dipped in beaten egg and seasoned. Fill the mold with cooked, chopped and seasoned spinach. Cover and steam for one hour. Turn out and serve on a platter garnished with hard-cooked eggs.

Squash is also improved by cooking it in combination with bacon according to these directions. Peel squash and cut in convenient sized pieces. Sprinkle with salt and cover with slices of bacon. Put in a baking dish and cover closely. Bake until the squash is tender. Just before time to serve, remove cover and let bacon become crisp.

SERVE EGGS TO YOUNG FOLKS

When Cooking Eggs Maintain the Heat at a Low Temperature.

As a food, eggs are very valuable as they contain much protein, some mineral matter and vitamins.

and when properly cooked are easily assimilated. Nutrition authorities state that an egg should be included in the daily diet of every normal child and adolescent in order to insure an adequate amount of food iron and other minerals.

A high temperature causes the protein in the egg tough and indigestible; therefore, in cooking eggs a low temperature should always be used.

ONIONS FOR HEALTH IF NOT FOR FLAVOR

There Are Many Varieties of Onions and All Are Healthful.

In making out a list of indispensable vegetables the onion would, or should, be near the top line, for it is one of the most healthful vegetables we can eat. Unfortunately, its pungent and clinging odor and flavor have caused it to be much maligned and have caused many a black look to be cast at its advocates—especially those who favor the garlic member of the onion family.

But the onion ranks high with people who know food and who appreciate health. Vitamins B and C, that regulate and tone up the nerves and prevent such diseases as scurvy and beriberi, are found in onions in generous quantities; therefore onions should be included in the diet of people who are inclined to nervous disorders.

They also are a good source of easily assimilable iron.

Old-fashioned remedies for colds or respiratory ailments made wide use of the onion, and onion baked with brown sugar is still one of the best old-fashioned remedies for a cold.

There are many different kinds of onions and each is a little different in flavor and often very different in appearance. For instance, white onions are milder and much less pungent than the red-skinned variety, but they do not keep as well. The red onions are perhaps highest in flavor and are best for cooking when just an onion flavor is desired. The white onions are best boiled and used raw for salads.

Scallions are onions that are one reason or other have not grown into a bulb. We know them as somewhat of a spring delicacy that are usually used in salads or eaten raw.

The leek, of course, belongs to the onion family—it has a thick, leafy stem instead of a bulb and is used largely for seasoning, especially soups, though it may be boiled and served as a vegetable.

The small white onions that are rather oblong in shape are known as shallots.

Garlic is the strongest member of the family and is more used by European than Americans. However, as a flavoring for salads and certain other dishes it has no equal, though it cannot be used as ordinary onions are used.

Chives, too, belong to the same family, but they are entirely different in their appearance. Their clumps of thin grass-like leaves make their appearance early in the spring. They are very delicate in flavor and the white ones are usually chopped and used as a garnish or flavor for salads.

Meal Planning Is a Problem Which Must Be Worked Out Intelligently.

In order to be sure that the day's diet is adequate for all concerned, it must include the following: First, cereal food. This need not necessarily take the form of breakfast porridge, although this is included in this group. By cereal food I mean also rice or tapioca which go into the simple puddings and the macaroni or hominy that is served as a vegetable.

Second, a quart of milk a day for each child and a pint for each adult. Here again a little modification is necessary. The milk need not be taken as a beverage. The day's quota may include milk used in ice creams, puddings, creamed soups and other simple dishes.

Third, fruit juices of fresh or dried fruit, the standbys being apples, prunes, raisins and figs, oranges in season and melons in season, berries and peaches.

Fourth, at least one green vegetable, preferably two, the list to include spinach, cabbage, celery, onions, peas and beans. In winter time this list is modified according to season, the winter vegetables replacing the ones I have given.

Fifth, a body-building food such as meat or fish or eggs or cheese, once daily.

Sixth, fresh butter, olive oil and peanut butter as a spread for bread with margarin and other cooking fats used in proper quantities when preparing the dishes that make up the family diet.

SOME PERTINENT FACTS CONCERNING SEASONINGS

Modern Cookery Accents Highly Flavored Food for the Family

Allspice is the dried fruit of a small tree that grows in the West Indies, and is known there as the pimento. Dried whole allspice looks like whole black pepper—it may be bought ground or powdered, as well as whole, and is used for flavoring cake, for spicing pickles or fruits. It is supposed to resemble in flavor a combination of cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg, hence its name of "allspice."

Capers are the pickled flower buds of the caper plant that grows along the Mediterranean and in India. The buds are dried then pickled in a rather strong vinegar or in brine flavored with tarragon or other spices. They have a characteristic bitter, sour taste, and are much used as a garnish for salads and in making meat and salad sauces.

Curry powder is a seasoning made from a combination of spices—usually tumeric black pepper, cayenne, coriander, ginger, salt, cumin and cinnamon. Other spices are sometimes used. It is a highly flavored powder with a dusty yellow color. It is used in cooking meats, fish or vegetables that are served with rice. "Curry" comes from the Hindu word meaning stew.

VEGETABLES GOOD FOR YOUR BREAKFAST

They Seem to Fit Into the Spring and Summer Breakfasts.

In order to insure a plentiful supply of the health-giving vegetables in the diet, take the step of including them in the breakfast menu. People realized the appetizing qualities of this type of food, the morning meal would probably include them more often. They seem to especially fit into the spring and summer breakfasts, and as most of them combine well with eggs, or are improved in flavor by the addition of a bit of bacon, they can be made quite hearty enough even for those who like heavy breakfasts. For breakfast, fried tomatoes may be served at breakfast. They should be cut crosswise in thick slices, dipped into flour that has been seasoned with salt and pepper and then browned in the bacon fat. Mushrooms are particularly adapted to serve at breakfast. They may be added to scrambled eggs, omelet, served with steak or used in a cream or brown sauce on toast. Tomatoes—either fresh or canned—are delicious in connection with omelets. There is a Spanish omelet, a favorite company breakfast dish, which is simply the every day omelet served with a sauce made with tomatoes highly seasoned. Creamed asparagus on toast, garnished with crisp strips of bacon, makes a savory breakfast main dish. Other vegetables that are especially good for breakfast are tomato toast, vegetable hash made with a mixture of potatoes and any of the vegetables or with potatoes mixed with a can of soup vegetables, moistened with milk and browned in butter or bacon fat.

SAVING HEALTH FOR A SUMMER VACATION

Right Now Is Not Too Early to Begin to Build Up a Good Condition.

The thought of saving money for a summer trip is very familiar to most of us workers, but what about saving health for the same purpose?

Did you ever stop to realize how canny are the steamship companies who dangle before our longing eyes, folders showing delights of "leachers' class" European travel? They know and they cash in on the realization, that it is far easier to save money for some definite purpose, some treat long desired, than for the mere sake of saving.

Why not steal their idea and adapt it until the saving process is made to include health as well as money?

"But," protests someone. "The trip will not be taken for at least three months. Even the most ardent advocate of diet reform can hardly advise us to begin now to diet for an attack of sea sickness, for example, that cannot possibly take place until June."

True, but here are a few dietary secrets, so simple as to be practical for every one and yet so often neglected. The very incentive put forth by the steamship companies, the promise of a delightful trip, may figure largely in our eating program. It is so dull to eat according to rule unless we keep before us the thought of the reward we are to receive! Just as in the case of abstract saving of money, it is difficult to be thrilled over eating for health and health alone. What we need is the ability to visualize the joys that health will provide. So it is none too early to begin to think about making ourselves "fit" that we may enjoy the coming trip to the utmost, even if it's furthestmost limits are represented by a beach a few miles away. If the trip is to be trans-Atlantic, careful eating even for a week before sailing will often accomplish wonders in preventing seasickness. Does it not stand to reason that after several months of careful diet with its resulting good digestion the presailing precautions will be much simplified? There will be no time lost in getting rid of winter waste products which have been clogging the organs of elimination and causing us to feel "lousy" and dragged out. All that will have been done weeks before and these are the weeks in which to begin!

Plan Your Marketing. Learn to plan your marketing a week and so far as staples are concerned, and buy in quantity whenever possible. It won't take long to learn how much sugar, flour, butter, eggs, etc., you use each week, and by buying that amount once a week, you will not save only money, but time as well. It is seldom economical to buy poor quality food, no matter how cheap it is.

CABBAGE MAKES A SAVORY AND NOURISHING SOUP

Vegetable soups are among the most healthful types of food. Cabbage soup is a nourishing and palatable soup that is particularly appealing when served on a cold day.

Cabbage soup may be made out of either white or red cabbage, the latter variety is called Brittany soup and is delicious when made after this recipe:

Two quarts of water or bouillon are put over the fire with a little butter or dripping, and salt to taste. As soon as the liquid boils, half a head of red cabbage, finely shaved, is added, also two leeks cut in small pieces, and two potatoes sliced. The soup is permitted to boil one hour; then rounds of crisply toasted bread are arranged in the tureen, the and cabbage, and stir over the fire until the cabbage wilts. Then stir in a tablespoon or a little more of flour and add a quart and a half of water. Bring this to a boil, skim, and add one or two potatoes cut fine, a carrot cut in Julien strips, a little celery, if you have it, and cook this soup for one hour.

This Delicious Flavor won St. Louis 37 years ago

Here's a remarkable bread that's been a leader for 37 years

MADAM, if you pride yourself on serving as good food as your mother, you'll be interested in Baby Label Bread.

Thirty-seven years ago it was first introduced... when nearly all bread was baked at home.

It's the bread that first satisfied your mother and her friends that all that baking drudgery was needless.

Today it's more delicious than ever before... and it's winning new friends every day. St. Louis's most particular women insist on it... serve it in preference to any other they can buy or make at home.

If you could only watch us bake it you'd quickly know the reason. We use the same nourishing ingredients you'd use in your own kitchen. The highest grade flour, the purest shortening. That's why we believe you'll be fully as enthusiastic as the others, if you'll give Baby Label a trial.

So order a loaf from your grocer... and discover for yourself why the bread that delighted your mother deserves a place on your table, too. Welle-Boettler Bakery. Continental Baking Company.

STEWART TURNED OVER TO COURTS BY THE SENATE

Perjury Inquiry and Contempt Prosecution Urged Against Indiana Standard Chairman.

OIL MAN RAKED
DURING DEBATE

Norris of Nebraska Flatly Declares That He Was Guilty of Giving False Testimony.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, April 27.—While vacating his order of arrest against Robert W. Stewart of Chicago, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, the Senate took steps yesterday looking to his further prosecution by certifying to the District Attorney of the District of Columbia extracts from his testimony before the Tappan Dome Committee for study to determine whether a perjury charge should be lodged against him.

Moreover, it specifically declared its insistence upon the prosecution of Stewart on the contempt charge brought against him after his refusal to answer certain questions before the committee when he appeared here Feb. 2 and 3. That indictment is set for trial May 21.

With this the Senate passed on to the courts all of its differences with Stewart, which began when the oil operator appeared before the committee last February and refused to answer two questions on the ground that he was under subpoena in the criminal conspiracy trial of Harry F. Sinclair and that the questions should be answered in court.

These differences had their ending last Tuesday when Stewart appeared and told a story of handling some of the Continental Trading Co.'s Liberty bond profits which amazed the investigators and which led Chairman Nye to observe on the Senate floor that the witness was "revasive and in all probability did not tell all he knew about the purposes and affairs of the Continental Trading Co."

Not since the flaming days of four years ago when the revelations in the Tappan Dome scandal were coming thick and fast, has an oil operator been so excoriated on the floor of the Senate as Stewart was during the hour and one-half of debate which preceded the reference of Stewart's case to the courts.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, a leader of the Republican insurgents, said he had no hesitancy in saying that Stewart was guilty of perjury. "It seems to me," he said, "from the testimony given by Stewart himself, and other facts which are undisputed and admitted, that he is guilty of perjury and has committed it before this committee."

Reviewing the whole Continental Trading Co. deal, wherein Stewart guaranteed that company's contracts to purchase and resell oil at a profit of 25 cents a barrel, and later received $159,599 of the profits in Liberty bonds which have been turned over to the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Co., Norris declared:

"There is not an honest spot in it. It is dishonest from beginning to end."

Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, said Stewart's refusal to testify was for the purpose of "frustrating justice" to aid "his partner in crime, Sinclair."

FIVE DEAD IN AFRICAN WRECK; AMERICAN PHYSICIANS AID
By the Associated Press. CAPE TOWN, South Africa, April 27.—American doctors on a tour today rushed to the aid of victims of a train wreck at Hex River Pass, near Worcester, in which five persons, including a woman, were killed and many were injured.

The train, carrying passengers from Johannesburg, was rounding a curve on a steep grade when the dining car was derailed. Six other coaches were dragged with it and piled up, the coaches bursting in flames.

Another train which was held up by the wreck carried tourists from the liner Franconia. A number of American doctors were among the tourists and they immediately rushed to the scene of the accident and gave first aid.

A train with passengers for the liner Saxon was behind the wrecked train and the sailing of that vessel was delayed.

Tungsten Inquiry Authorized.
By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, April 27.—The Senate yesterday passed the Oddie resolution calling upon the Tariff Commission to investigate the cost of production of tungsten in the United States and China and report its findings to President Coolidge. China was named as "the principal competing country" for the tungsten market.

PROPOSES FLYING CROSSES TO OTHER FOREIGN AIRMEN

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Award of the Distinguished Flying Cross to the two French flyers and the Italian aviator who have flown to this country as well as to the crew of the Bremen was proposed in a bill introduced yesterday by Senator Bingham (Rep.) of Connecticut.

The measure would authorize President Coolidge to give the cross to Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrun, the French aviators who flew over the South Atlantic and traversed this country, and to

Col. Francesco Pinedo, of Italy, who piloted a plane from Rome to South and North America.

Senator Reed (Rep.) of Pennsylvania, already has proposed that the cross be given to the crew of the Bremen which landed in Labrador after a flight over the North Atlantic.

The James bill to authorize presentation of the cross to the crew of the Bremen was ordered favorably reported yesterday by the House Military Committee.

WOULD RECALL IRISH MINISTER De Valera Proposes Post in U. S. Be Abolished.

By the Associated Press. DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 27.—Abolition of the post of Free State representative at Washington was urged in the Dail Eireann budget debate yesterday by Eamon de Valera, Republican leader, who said that it was not worth the money it cost.

It was based on false pretenses, he said, and it would be better if the Government ceased to have a Minister there merely was part of the British embassy. It did not deceive Americans, De Valera added. Patrick McGilligan, Minister for Industry and Commerce, replying for the Government, denied the Irish Minister at Washington was connected with the British embassy and said the United States had reorganized the position in sending its own Minister to Dublin.

W. J. NICHOLLS FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, April 27.—Wm. J. Nicholls is suing Barbara Rutherford Hatch Nicholls, daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, for an annulment of their marriage on the ground that she is insane. It was disclosed in the Supreme Court today. Justice Aaron J. Levy signed an order permitting Nicholls to serve notice by publication of his suit. His wife, he says, is "somewhere in France in a sanatorium."

Nicholls said that he was married at New City, Rockland County, N. Y., Aug. 11, 1924, but had been

Doctor Found V and Children More Oft

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, and any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough examination. They were continued. In the course of Dr. Caldwell's 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with peppermint. In 1893 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in Dr. Caldwell's private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed.

His wife, he says, is "somewhere in France in a sanatorium."

Nicholls said that he was married at New City, Rockland County, N. Y., in 1924, but had been separated from his wife for the last three years. During the last year her whereabouts was unknown to him, he said, except for the indefinite information that she is in a sanatorium in France. In his complaint, Nicholls declares: "For the purpose of inducing the plaintiff to consent to the said marriage, the defendant falsely and fraudulently represented to plaintiff that she was then and at all times theretofore had been in all respects normal, mentally and physically; and the defendant concealed from the plaintiff her true mental and physical condition. Upon information and belief that, in truth and in fact, defendant was then and/or had theretofore been a lunatic and was or had theretofore been in other respects abnormal, mentally and physically."

Mrs. Nicholls is a stepdaughter of the late William K. Vanderbilt, who married Mrs. Nicholls' mother, then Mrs. Ann Harriman Sands Rutherford, in 1903.

GOVERNOR FOR UTILITIES COURSE IN SCHOOLS

Baker Tells Association 'H Would Eliminate Some of the "Pusillanimous Kicks."

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, April 27.—Following an address by Gov. Baker yesterday, the twenty-second annual convention of the Missouri Association of Public Utilities closed its first day's session last night with a barbecue and dance at State Park.

The Governor welcomed the 130 representatives of utilities from all sections of the State here for the meeting and declared that public utilities and the services they gave should be studied in the schools and colleges of the State.

"I believe the public schools curriculum should be so modified as to have a place in that curriculum for public utilities," the Governor said. "The time is coming when the people will be educated to the necessity for public utilities, and do away with some of these little pusillanimous kicks that you get every once in a while without any cause whatever for them."

A miniature electrified farm, on exhibition at convention headquarters in the New Missouri Hotel, is one of the features of the convention. It is shown jointly by the agricultural colleges and the power and light companies of Missouri, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska. The uses of electricity in agriculture and the progress being made in electric equipment for farm use is demonstrated.

W. H. Henby, head of the St. Louis County Water Co. and president of the association, declared in an address that $6,000 Missouri farms will be electrified by 1948, and that the total cost to farmers and power companies will be about $200,000,000.

This is the "biggest job" in front of the utilities in Missouri, Henby said, but added that rapid progress is being made and that "the job will be done." About 5000 farms in the State now are using electricity, he said, and growth of transmission lines as made it possible to rapidly extend service to farms.

The annual banquet will be given tonight. An address by Thomas J. Brown, chairman of the State Public Service Commission, is on today's program.

LIBERTY MUSIC HALL RAIDED BY POLICE

Company of 16 and Producer,
Accused of Giving Indecent Show.

Patrol wagons backed up to the Liberty Music Hall, 3627 Delmar boulevard, last night, and removed 14 chorus girls, two comedians, the producer and his manager to Police Headquarters where they were locked up for two hours and released on $500 bonds, charged with giving an indecent performance.

Police have been receiving daily complaints for many months from churches, civic organizations and citizens, some denouncing the show "smelled to heaven." Members of the morality squad and police-women were sent to the theater on several occasions to obtain evidence on which to apply for warrants, but they reported Prosecuting Attorney Schweitzer refused to issue warrants.

Last night Chief of Police Gerk instructed Chief of Detectives Kaiser, accompanied by a shorthand reporter, William Muench, and three detectives, entered the playhouse after paying the half-dollar admission fee. Muench made notes of what he heard and saw.

When the first act descended at 9 o'clock, and a movie flashed on for the intermission, the police left the crowded parlor and went backstage, ordering the performers to put on their street clothes and enter the parlor. The costumes of the 14 girls bunched together weighed two pounds.

Oscar Dane, the producer; his manager, John F. Christopher, former City Building Commissioner; and two comedians, Billy McCoy and Jack Montague, are the men arrested. The chorus girls taken into custody gave ages ranging from 17 to 20.

The chorus girls, when questioned, said their salaries ranged from $9 to $30 a week—one getting $30, two getting $25, and the others from $9 to $12. One girl said she was a native of the city; the rest said they had come from other cities and small towns, seeking employment.

Witnesses TELL
OF LOBBY'S FIGHT
ON BOULDER DAM

The committee, testified that Dr. Frank Bohn, a lobbyist, was writing a booklet by Richard Washburn Child, former Ambassador to Italy, opposing Boulder Dam. Child had received $7500 for the original work.

Publicity Methods Outlined.
Interrogated as to his activities as publicity director of the Pennsylvania Public Service Information Committee at Philadelphia, before coming to the joint committee in 1927, Richardson testified that he and Samuel S. Wier, a consulting engineer of Columbus, O., author of some text books used in Pennsylvania, conducted a survey of text books in that State. Although Hays tried to uncover whether Wier was being paid by the utility associations, no record was found.

Orville W. Brewer and John R. Buxey, both of New York, cashiers and secretary respectively of the American Gas Association, testified as to the membership of their organization, consisting of 620 gas companies, 23 holding companies, 473 manufacturers, 4566 individuals and 24 associate members.

Walsh Makes Attack in Senate on Public Lobby.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 27.—Public attention was directed to the public utilities investigation conducted by the Federal Trade Commission today by Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, in a Senate attack on the power lobby, which he contended had been uncovered.

The Senator said the testimony now being heard was passing "unnoticed by the great public, which would have been fully informed if my original resolution for a Senate investigation had prevailed." He read newspaper accounts of the Trade Commission inquiry and several documents which had been entered.

One was a purported list of organizations blacklisted by public utilities groups. "This makes me inquire," said Walsh, "whether the 'good old ladies of the D. A. R.' as William Allen White calls them, have been taken in by the propaganda of these public utilities organizations."

Earlier he referred briefly to his advocacy of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway project, submitting a report concerning it and a telegram from Edward G. Carrington. The telegram charged that public utilities organizations were "the invisible arm" behind the proposed project, and Walsh said that such information should prove enlightening to other Senators who had opposed the project.

GOVERNMENT HAS BEEN SYNDICATED, REED SAYS

Missouri Senator Predicts
"Great Political Upheaval" in West Virginia Speech.

By the Associated Press.
HUNTINGTON, W. Va., April 27.—A "great political upheaval" was forecast here last night by Senator Reed of Missouri, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, who is making his second speaking tour of West Virginia.

"In my opinion," Reed said, "we are about to witness a great political upheaval. There is a growing feeling among people of all parties that the Government has been syndicated by a few men who constitute the governing body of the Republican party."

"They realize that the party management has gained its campaign contributions by granting special favors. They know the manufacturers have demanded and exacted a tariff law so high as to substantially destroy competition from abroad, and that they have organized themselves into great trusts and combinations to extort unjust prices from the American consumer."

"They know that these pools, trusts and combinations have enjoyed almost complete immunity during the last eight years, and that they have been constantly increasing their power and exactions."

Reed touched briefly on the lake cargo rate case, declaring the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission in refusing to permit the Southern railroads to reduce rates voluntarily, was designed to give an arbitrary advantage to Pennsylvania coal companies.

The decision, he said, "is of sinister import. The decision annuls the natural advantage of location. Its effect is to increase the price of coal to millions of people."

Alaskan G. O. P. Delegates Opposed to Hoover.
By the Associated Press.
JUNEAU, Alaska, April 27.—Republican primary election returns from precincts embracing all incorporated towns in the territory indicate the election of Austin E. Lathrop, who is favorable to the presidential candidacy of Herbert Hoover, to the post of territorial commissioner, and James Wickesham and W. H. Chase, known to be opposed to Hoover, as delegates to the Republican National Convention.

Dan Sutherland, delegate to Congress, and Attorney-General John Rustgard, apparently were renominated.

Exiled Communist Says He Is on Secret Mission From Moscow.

By the Associated Press.
VIENNA, April 27.—Bela Kun, Hungarian communist, has been arrested here.

Bela Kun said that he came to Vienna to execute secret orders given to him in Moscow which he could not divulge. He opened a co-called commercial office in the Seventh District, where he received many Hungarian emigrants. Kun, who was banished from Vienna several years ago, will be charged with illegally returning to Austria. The Hungarian Government, however, is reported as demanding his surrender in view of hundreds of crimes with which he is charged in that country.

WALDMAN AGAIN PROPOSES SERVICE CAR REGULATION

Alderman's Previous Similar Bill
Failed After Slush Fund Charges Were Made.

A bill providing municipal regulation for service car drivers was introduced in the Board of Aldermen today by Alderman Herman Waldman of the Twenty-eighth Ward. Under the bill, drivers, in order to obtain a license, would have to prove their technical skill and financial responsibility, and post a bond or obtain liability insurance.

A similar bill offered by Waldman at the last session failed of passage, after a spokesman for one faction of service car drivers charged that a "slush fund" was being raised.

TRAIN STOPPED THREE FEET FROM AUTO WRECK ON TRACKS

A coupe driven by Charles Rubino of 312 North Tenth street skidded 75 feet and overturned on the grade crossing of the Missouri Pacific Railroad tracks and Kings-highway early today.

The crossing gates were being lowered and a train was approaching as the automobile neared the crossing. The train stopped within a few feet of the wrecked automobile.

Nether Rubino nor Frank Morcorio of 3514 Hogan street, who was with him, was injured.

AFRAID U. S. CANNOT BUILD NEEDED SHIPS

Secretary Wilbur and Other Witnesses, Deplore Decline in Navy Facilities.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 27.—Testimony was given to the Senate Naval Committee today by high naval officials that if the present downward trend in private ship building continues, the Nation may find itself without facilities to replace its battle fleet and auxiliaries after the naval building holiday ends in 1932.

The discussion revolved around the House bill proposing the construction of 15 new 10,000-ton cruisers and one new aircraft carrier, and particularly the Dallinger amendment under which half of those ships with all their equipment would be constructed in navy yards.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, Rear Admiral Capps and other high naval officers gave their views on the Dallinger amendment, with Admiral Capps issuing the warning as to a possible lack of ship building facilities for naval replacement during the next 10 or 15 years.

The Admiral, who, as Wilbur explained, has devoted 40 years to naval construction work, declared the situation as to ship building facilities was far less satisfactory than it was in 1916 and 1917, and that apparently it was becoming worse.

The Committee was told that there are now only eight private shipyards in the country as against 16 before the war and that of the eight, only two or three are equipped to construct large naval craft.

Objecting to the arbitrary provision in the bill for the construction of half of the new ships in navy yards, Secretary Wilbur said it was essential to maintain competition in naval construction and also to keep the navy yards at high efficiency.

He expressed apprehension that if the Government yards were certain of getting half of the ships there might be a letting down in efficiency.

Should the Dallinger amendment be retained in the bill, the Secretary said, some changes would have to be made in it, since the navy yards are not equipped to manufacture all of the armor, engines and armament for the craft. Much of the finished products going into the ships, such as boilers, gun mounts, pumps, and the delicate and complicated fire control system, must be purchased from private manufacturers, he said.

LUTHERAN ORPHANAGE BURNS 80 Inmates Rescued at Nachusa, Ill. Loss Is $25,000.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
DIXON, Ill., April 27.—The main building of the Lutheran Orphanage at Nachusa, six miles east of Dixon on the Lincoln highway, burned Wednesday night at 7 o'clock. The 80 orphans at the home were rescued by attendants, and none was injured.

The building and contents, valued at $25,000, were destroyed. Insurance of $12,500 was carried, however. The Dixon Fire Department responded, but was unable to save the building because of lack of water.

Has Your Back Given Out? A Constant Backache Often Warns of Sluggish Kidneys

EVERY day finds you lame, stiff and aching? Feel tired and drowsy—suffer nagging backache, headache and dizzy spells?

Know, then, that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Sluggish kidneys allow acid poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system. If your kidneys act sluggishly, assist them with Doan's Pills. Doan's, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Are endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say Missouri Folks:
MRS. ANNA DELBOW, 2815 Holly St., Kansas City, Mo., says: "I have lots of faith in Doan's Pills because of the benefit I received from them. I was so sore and stiff I could hardly get my clothes on. A friend advised me to try Doan's Pills and they gave me relief. I felt fine after taking them."

C. W. CLAY, 306 Locust St., Jefferson City, Mo., says: "After an attack of the grippe my kidneys bothered me and I had a constant pain in the small of my back. I felt tired and when I finished my work my back was lame. My kidneys weren't acting right and my night's rest was disturbed. Doan's Pills made me well."

Find Sun Is Hottest at 48 Degrees South Latitude

U. S. Weather Bureau Expert Estimates Solar Power Would Light 26 Electric Lamps of 40 Watts Each.

By WATSON DAVIS.
Managing Editor of Science Service.

(Copyright, 1928.)
WASHINGTON, April 27.—The place where the sun shines hottest was announced by Dr. Herbert H. Kimball, of the United States Weather Bureau, to the American Geophysical Union, now holding its annual meeting here. It is along a circular band around the earth at 48 degrees south latitude, which includes the southern part of South America, the southern tip of New Zealand and the vast expanse of the Atlantic and Indian oceans to the south of the Cape of Good Hope.

Dr. Kimball discovered as a result of his computations, that the sunshine of a clear sky in this area falling on the space occupied by an ordinary house, gives enough energy to light 26 ordinary electric lamps of 40 watts each.

Unfortunately, there is no possible way of utilizing all of this sun energy as electricity, even in South America, houses will not be lighted by the sun falling on the roof. At the usual rate for electric current, it would cost about 10 cents an hour to light these lamps. These figures only refer to conditions with clear skies.

Hottest Places of Globe.

Considering those with average cloudiness, said Dr. Kimball, the greatest heat from the sun prevails along a region including the west coast of Australia in latitudes 20 to 30 degrees south, the west coast of Africa from 30 to 34 degrees south and the east coast of South America at 26 degrees south. Here there is enough heat falling on the roof of an ordinary house to light 17 40-watt lamps, which would cost about six and a half cents an hour.

The old question of who put the salt in the sea was referred to Vulcan, patron mythological saint of volcanoes, by Dr. E. G. Zies of the geophysical laboratory of the Carnegie Institution of Washington who attributed in a paper some of the chlorine content of the oceans to the outpourings of hydrochloric acid gases from fumarolic areas, such as the valley 10,000 smokes in Alaska. The hydrochloric acid gases changes to salt in contact with sodium mineral content of the rocks and water, just as the acid contents of the stomach produce salt when they come in contact with soda or baking powder.

Emit Acid Gas.

These minor volcanoes and other eruptions also belch forth considerable quantities of hydrofluoric acid gas. This is the acid that will etch glass. To it is due the fluorine content of the sea to which the chemical content is washed by rains. Recently the sea was discovered to be a veritable mine of fluorine and a floating chemical plant was placed aboard a ship to extract this valuable chemical from seawater. Dr. Zies declared that so much fluorine is sent down to the sea that some unknown chemical mechanism must be at work to precipitate most of it to the submarine rock floor.

More ozone, as superactive oxygen is called, occurs in the high heavens above the Northern Hemisphere than below the equator. Dr. F. E. Fowle of the Smithsonian Institution told the geophysicists. Due to influence of the earth's magnetic field affected by the streams of electrons or ultraviolet light from the sun, ozone is formed from the oxygen of the air and drifts toward the top of the earth. This layer of ozone in the upper atmosphere has been found to reduce the heat of the sun reaching the earth's surface.

GASOLINE BOOTLEGGER FINED $170; BROKE FIVE ORDINANCES

David Pearlman Sold Auto Fuel From Truck in Street Without Paying State or City Taxes.

David Pearlman, the first "gasoline bootlegger" arrested by police, was fined $170 and costs by Police Judge Beck yesterday for violating five ordinances. His son, Ted Pearlman, associated with him, was fined $20 and costs. According to police testimony, the elder Pearlman retained gasoline from a truck in front of his residence at 1349 North Garrison avenue, without paying State or city gasoline taxes. He was arrested April 19.

Charges against Pearlman were operating a filling station without a city permit, placing an unauthorized obstruction in the street, operating a business within 250 feet of a school, using an unlicensed measure and failing to have a city license on the truck. Pearlman remonstrated against the fines, insisting he had been in business 23 years and never before had been accused of law infractions. Both father and son appealed.

ESCAPES 30-DAY SENTENCE

ON DRUNKEN DRIVING CHARGE

Salesman Wins Appeal Although Police Testify He Was Intoxicated; Admits Taking Drink. Despite police testimony that he was intoxicated and his own admission that he had "had a drink," Joe Calvert, 24-year-old vacuum cleaner salesman, was cleared of a charge of driving while intoxicated in Court of Criminal Correction yesterday. Calvert, who lives at 2355 Whittemore place, had appealed from a 30-day workhouse sentence and $100 fine assessed by Police Judge Rosecan.

Police-Sergeant Wiley of Laclede District, who arrested the defendant, testified he staggered, talked incoherently and gave other evidence of being drunk. Calvert denied being drunk and said he became ill after drinking root beer on top of a glass of wine. "This looks like a close case to me," commented the Court in ordering the discharge.

Two transit bills before the Board of Aldermen—one sponsored by Mayor Miller and the other by Alderman Wimer—were discussed today in a joint meeting of the Aldermanic Ways and Means and Rapid Transit committees. They adjourned to meet at 11 a. m. Wednesday without reaching a decision on the relative merits of the two bills.

Mayor Miller's bill, asking for $50,000 for a transportation survey, covers the whole transportation situation in St. Louis, whereas the Wimer bill, providing for an appropriation of $6000, covers only rapid transit. President Neun of the board explained. Neun said the Mayor's theory was that co-ordination of all transportation facilities, as well as rapid transit should be considered. Defending his own bill, Wimer said it would place control of the proposed transit commission in hands of the citizens by giving the Aldermen control of appointments and take the matter out of politics. A satisfactory transit survey has been made, he declared.

Do You Lack Strength?

"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Pleasant Pellets proved so helpful to me that I am glad to say a good word for them. I suffered from many discomforts, had no appetite, ached all over, had no strength to work, and was constipated. I have used most all kinds of medicine a person could think of, but none ever did me any good. At last a friend told me about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and I gave it a trial. The relief given could not have been more satisfactory. I will gladly recommend Dr. Pierce's medicine to all I know."—Mrs. Edith Smith, Route 4, Box 93, Leavenworth, Kans.

Wayside Shots of the Trans-Continental Runners Who Passed Through St. Louis Today

Here is Gavuzzi, Italian ship steward, but running for England with the Union Jack stitched on his shirt. Gavuzzi was leading the field yesterday with total elapsed time of 337 hours for 2013 miles. He is 22 years old and weighs 120 pounds.

Harry Rea, Long Beach (Cal.) life-guard, rests by a roadside fire outside of St. James.

Harry Gunn, 26-year-old son of a California millionaire, believes he can win the race by walking. He is in thirty-third place. A deluxe dining truck meets him every day to provide a hot lunch and his trainer hands him a bottle of pop every 30 minutes.

Alan Currier, speed-cop of Rogue River, Ore., calls the shoe repair man for first aid on Rolla's Main Street. The traveling shoemaker gets an average of 64 calls daily from the coast-to-coasters.

Lucian Lee, movie actor, who played in the "King of Kings," does not believe in shaving, even for a shin-splint derby from coast to coast. His two converts to the hirsute school of running are (left) "Wild-fire" Thompson, Arkansas prizefighter, and (right) W. A. Downing, Los Angeles clerk.

Guisto Umek, Italian distance champion, believes in fashion. Here he is thrilling the folks at Rolla after pounding 32 miles from Waynesville through the Ozarks. Mark the spats.

Olli Wantinnon, pint-size Finn, who weighs but 96 pounds, and John Salo, American legionnaire from Passaic N. J., take a steep grade together near Cuba, Mo. Wantinnon, the lightest man in the race, is in seventh place. Salo is sixth.

George Rehayn, known as "the musical Dutchman," sings the shin-splint blues after 7 hours of a gravel Ozark road.

POLISH AVIATORS FORCED DOWN IN TEST FOR SEA TRIP

Break in Radiator of Plane
Compels Them to Land
Near Abbeville, 100 Miles North of Paris.

LEFT LE BOURGET
FIELD AT 5:55 A. M.

Their Secrecy Caused Rumors That They Were
Attempting Trans-Atlantic Flight.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, April 28.—The Polish aviators, Maj. Louis Idzikowski and
Maj. Czeslaw Kubala, who hopped off early this morning for an unknown destination, landed at Forest Montiers near the village of Rue, at 2 o'clock this afternoon because of a break in the radiator of their machine, says a dispatch from Abbeville, 100 miles north of Paris. A tire burst when the machine landed. The aviators plan to fly to Villacoublay near Paris tomorrow. There they expect to give their engine a final tuning
Monday.
The aviators notified the authorities at Le Bourget of their landing, and added that they were not returning to that place tonight.
When the two Polish army flyers looked off at 5:55 o'clock this morning, their destination was not known and there were rumors that they were merely making an additional test of their plane, which had already performed satisfactorily on various long-distance flights.
The aviators left Le Bourget at 5:50 a. m., announcing that they intended to make an all-day test flight over the sea. The 500-horsepower biplane in which they hope later to cross the Atlantic to New York by way of the Azores.
The plans for the Polish trans-Atlantic flight have been under way for more than a year under the auspices of the Polish Ministry of War. During this time the flyers were in France undergoing special training and selecting their machine. A biplane of the S. E. C. M.- Amiot type, with a powerful Lerhone Dierich motor. The plane is said to be capable of a nonstop flight of 8500 kilometers (5281 miles).
The S. E. C. M.-Amiot planes are three-seater night bombers. The fuselage is of duralumin tubes, with split strut fittings, the bracing being mainly carried out by diagonal tubes in front of, and steel rods behind the wings. The top wing is larger in span than the lower one.
The maximum speed of this type of plane is set at 220 kilometers (136 miles) an hour.

STANDARD OIL OF NEW YORK
UP $4 A SHARE ON EXCHANGE

Goat to $39, Peak Price Since Listing; Other Petroleum Stocks Bought Heavily.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 28.—A rapid bull market in the petroleum group, on the New York Stock Exchange today, contrasted with extensive profit-taking sales in many of the hitherto popular stocks.
Standard Oil of New York was rushed up more than $4 a share across $33, the highest price since it was listed last year, and this rise gave the bulls courage to place enormous orders for other domestic and foreign petroleum issues, including Phillips, Mexican Seaboard and Maracaibo.
Heavy buying orders also were distributed for some tobacco, public utility and mining shares, in which advances ran from $2 to $4.
Some of the recently quiet issues came to life. Western Electric in-particular jumping nearly $4 a share. Although most of the Eastern railways slipped backward, Central of New Jersey continued to gain, rising $7 to $257.
Numerous stocks which have been in strong demand recently were sold freely toward the close, including Chesapeake & Ohio,
Nickel Plate, General Motors and Alba Chemicals. Some severe breaks occurred in various speculative National Tea, for instance, ending $11, International Silver $7 and Wright Aeronautical $4.

National Guard, and two army sergeants attached to the 125th Guard Infantry, who pleaded guilty to payroll padding and pay check forging at the Detroit armory.
Federal Judge Charles C. Simons sentenced them to terms of from a year and a day to two years in United States prison at Leavenworth, Kan.
